Carranza Has Only Day in Which to Yield; New Punitive Force to Run Down Latest Raiders

By WALLACE E. SMITH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

El Paso, May 11.—Today's developments will determine the success or failure of the conference between Mexican Minister of War Obregon and General Hugh L. Scott. What promised to be the final parley opened at 10 a. m.

Formal acceptance of the tentative pact made several days ago must be acknowledged by the Mexican government or the conference will end abruptly.

Wearied by dilatory tactics and diplomatic evasions, the American conferees were instructed to demand from Obregon Carranza's ratification of the pact.

If he can bring this to the conference today or bring a written counter-proposal, the stipulation being strictly that it shall be in writing, General Scott will return at once to Washington and General Funston will leave for San Antonio.

Redistribution of the American expeditionary forces will begin at once. The chief point of the American position is that no definite time shall be set for the withdrawal of the American troops. Any counter proposal will be considered so long as it does not ask for a definite date for withdrawal.

Word came from Washington that Carranza had laid before the State Department the alternative of definite withdrawal or negotiations for a new

SHIPS ARE READY TO SAIL

Armed Cutters Are Assigned to Stations; Warn Americans from All Points in Mexico

By International News Service.

Washington, May 11.—The General Board of the Navy has communicated to coast guard headquarters here assignments of each one of the fast, armed cutters comprising the service's flotilla to specified blockading duty on the Mexican coast, so that in case the United States assumes a more aggressive policy toward the southern republic the vessels will be prepared to go at once to their stations.

The coast guard cutters are especially esteemed by the Navy Department. With their light draught they can go farther in shallow harbors and rivers than cruisers or gunboats can.

Americans throughout Mexico are being warned to leave that country at once. Secretary of State Lansing today made it plain that the orders to American consuls to urge their countrymen to return immediately to the United States were not confined to any particular locality. He said that the orders were issued to consuls everywhere in Mexico.

Officials today for the most part maintained a silence on Mexican developments. It was stated that everything hinges on the result of the conference today at El Paso between Generals Obregon and Scott.

HOUSE DEFEATS BILL FOR JITNEYS

Newport News, Va., May 11.—The Merchants and Miners' steamship Berkshire, which left Newport News for Baltimore, was in collision with the barge Ivie of the New England Coal & Coke Company, in Hampton Roads today, and the steamship was run aground on Hampton Bar to prevent her from sinking.

The barge was reported in a sinking condition. hTe Berkshire is leaking badly, but is in no danger. Captain Nordal and and four men were saved from the Ivie.

PRESIDENT NAMED BY CHINESE REBELS

Peking, May 11.—Dispatches from Canton announce that the southern provincial government, which has been organized at Canton by the revolutionary generals, has proclaimed Li Yuan-Hung President.

Miss Laura L. Johnson of Minneapolis, on the stand in the Federal court, where the trial of her suit for $20,000 for alleged breach of promise against the Rev. Charles Chase Wilson of Roslindale started today, told how young Mr. Wilson, then a student at the University of Vermont, made ardent love to her, kissed her many times and on many occasions and, holding her in his arms, said to her:

"You'll be my little wife, won't you?"

"I did not permit Mr. Wilson to embrace me, even at his first declaration of love.

"He dined frequently with me and my mother. Once on the train while he started to pay my fare, and my mother objected and paid it, and he said: 'Here we are preparing to marry, and now we're getting off the track.'

HUSBAND IS CALLED BRUTAL

Accused of Cruelty, Too, by Woman's Counsel, for Withholding Mother's Letters from Her Boy

Concord, N. H., May 11.—Mrs. Marguerite Paul Carpenter sobbed bitterly and many women in the courtroom also cried when two letters which she had written to her nine-year-old son, Ralph G., Jr., were read during the trial of her husband's divorce suit today.

The letters, which were pathetically loving, were never shown to the boy, and General Frank S. Streeter, counsel for Mrs. Carpenter, caustically flayed Carpenter for withholding them.

Carpenter reddened under the bitter arraignment of Streeter, but stubbornly reiterated that he believed the letters would "bother" the boy.

The first letter, both of which were written after little Ralph had been taken from his mother at Magnolia to Woburn by his father, was dated October 12, 1915, and read:

My Darling Boy:

I am so anxious to know how your health is. I do hope by little boy is well. Now, dear, what are you doing about your studies? You know how badly mother would feel to have you lose any or fail behind your class.

You are never out of my thoughts. You know, darling, how much I love you, and always shall as long as I live. I pray for you every night. Try and keep well for my sake.

With all my love to my precious boy.

(Signed) MOTHER.

Taking the letter in one hand, General Streeter advanced on the witness and shaking the paper under the other's nose demanded:

"Is there any humane reason at all why you would not let the boy read that letter and learn of the love of his mother? Why did you keep it from him? You have said that the reason was because of the nature of it. What

WIDOW, IN JAIL, SAYS PLOT

Woman, Accused of Deaths by Poison in Windsor Home for the Aged, Protests Innocence

Hartford, May 11.—At the conclusion of the inquest in the murder charge against Mrs. Amy E. Archer-Gilligan, it was stated that the case would not be ready for the June Grand Jury, but would have to be held over for September.

Meanwhile Mrs. Gilligan, who is charged with causing the death of Franklin D. Andrews, an inmate of her home for the aged at Windsor, will have to stay all through the heat of Summer caged up in the tiny, dark cell of the jail, which was condemned a year ago.

The latest developments disclosed by witnesses at the inquest and by officials in the case are these:

1—Declaration of Coroner J. G. Calhoun that Mrs. Gilligan undoubtedly resorted to the aid of an accomplice in her alleged poisonings.

"It seems hardly possible that the woman could have done this alone," declared Coroner Calhoun. "I do not know whether her confederate was an inmate or not. The person might have assisted her, but in an entirely innocent way."

2—Dr. Arthur J. Wolff, expert chemist retained by the State, made the flat statement that he had discov-

Five Fall With Hydroplane; 2 Are Missing

By International News Service.

Washington, May 11.—Two men were seriously injured and two others are missing and may have been drowned as the result of an hydro-aeroplane carrying five persons collapsing while 150 feet in the air, and falling into the Potomac River, near Mount Vernon, Va., early today.

Thomas McCauley, twenty-eight, of Newport News, the pilot, and L. P. Ulder, machinist, of Cleveland, were the most seriously injured. Mayo Duley was slightly hurt.

Charles A. Good and Bert A. Costa have not been accounted for.

The hydro-aeroplane is owned by the Atlantic Coast Aeronautical Station of Newport News. The five men left early today to fly to Newport News.

Car Balks After Half Mile Run on Cheap 'Gasolene'

Before about 500 persons on Hancock street, Stoneham, today, a large touring car was driven about half a mile on a so-called gasoline substitute invented by Daniel E. Smith, a Stoneham attorney.

The machine was then taken to Main street, a short distance away, but this time it refused to budge. Smith explained that the tank was so large that the small amount of fuel which he had put in could not work properly.

The demonstration was made about noon, and although the time had been kept a secret from all but a few persons, a large crowd was on hand, with about forty autoists. Charles F. Smith of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company, which uses about 30,000 gallons of gasolene a year, was present by invitation.

A large touring car was brought out of the Stoneham garage, owned by George H. Wood, and the gasolene drained from the tank. Smith, the discoverer, then poured a quart of water, half a pint of vinegar, and the contents of a bottle which he had in a pocket, into the tank.

Mr. Wood took the wheel, Smith, Charles O. Hunter and four others entered the car, and it was driven about 500 yards down the street and back again.

treaty between the two nations. It was at once reported that Obregon would attempt to force the same issue before the American generals in El Paso. Such an attempt, it was reported, would end the conference at once.

The approaching end of the international palaver was indicated by the fact that a second expeditionary force was preparing to maintain itself across the border in the direction of Boquillas, General Funston will direct this second expedition on his return to San Antonio.

With the prospect of facing two expeditionary forces in his country Carranza may give considerable thought to the terms of the contract with which President Wilson has announced his satisfaction.

Stripped of all formalities this is Carranza's plight:

He must either make a show of consenting to American troops staying in Mexico or have the troops there anyway.

American conferees have refused to visit Juarez again to parley with the Mexican ministers. Unless this attitude was changed by order from Washington by the time for the conference it seemed sure that today's meeting would be marked by very business-like tactics.

MANY BANDIT BANDS

While the time for the conference was approaching representatives from the border in the vicinity of Boquillas showed that scouts were already feeling their way on the southern side of the Rio Grande and that an organized expedition would soon be hiking over Mexican soil after the outlaws who looted and killed at Glen Springs.

From all about Boquillas and the front of the new expedition comes reports that fresh bands of bandits are filling to new raids. At Langtry, Texas, a large war party of former Carranza soldiers, mounted and armed was sighted. Another band was seen near Eagle Pass. A detachment of the nineteenth infantry was sent to meet them.

Indications that the government sees before it the prospect of intervention came with confirmation of reports that Americans living in northern Mexico be warned to leave that country. American scouts have investigated the activities of Black Gomez in Sonora, and reported that Jose Ynez Salazar the rebel, had conferred with a Carranzista commander near the American front at Naniquipa.

REGULARS AT COLUMBUS DIG TRENCHES AROUND BASE CAMP

By International News Service.

Columbus, N. M., May 10.—Completely circling the base camp here are stakes marking the line of trenches which will be completed before another fortnight has passed. Already soldiers are at work north, west and south of the town, "digging in."

Three feet wide at the top, perpendicular on one side and sloping to an eighteen-inch base at the rear, the trenches have little promontories of earth every squad length to protect the soldiers from an enfilader flank fire.

As the trenches are extended day by day they will be joined at the ends to give a complete, circular line of defence.

Civilians were ordered to remain in their homes unless business requires their being abroad after nine o'clock. A million dollars worth of military stores—ammunition, arms, food and clothing—offer a most tempting mark to the Mexicans.

May Call National Guard Cavalry

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN.

Staff Correspondent International News Service.

Washington, May 11.—Elaborate preparations have been made for the protection of all vital points along the Mexican border if the break with Carranza, which most officials consider almost certain, comes.

The United States will keep all the troops now in Northern Mexico there until Francisco Villa is killed or captured.

It is considered certain that in the event of complete intervention no effort would be made by Carranza to protect the nationals of this country.

Advices agree that the general situation throughout Mexico is getting worse and that hundreds of people are dying of disease and starvation. The government is unable to meet its current obligations and even the soldiers are not being paid.

The War Department has plans perfected for calling out the entire National Guard of the country if the necessity arises.

It is expected that the first troops to be called out will be the cavalry forces of the various States. Cavalry is still badly needed by General Funston.

Carranza has submitted two propositions to the United States, with the object of averting war between the two countries.

In the event that neither is accepted by the United States government, he proposes arbitration of the differences.

General Carranza's propositions are:

1—That a definite time be fixed by the United States for the withdrawal of the punitive expedition from Mexico.

2—That a new treaty between the United States and Mexico, defining the rights of each in the territory of the other, be negotiated immediately.

No attempt was made to conceal the fact that intervention was discussed at the cabinet meeting, and that it was decided that all military operations should be considered with a view to the possibility of intervention.

New Punitive Expedition Ready

By JOSEPH W. TIMMONS.

Staff Correspondent International News Service.

Marathon, Texas, May 11.—Colonel A. C. Macomb, with troops F and H and the machine gun troops of the Fourteenth Cavalry, will be at Boquillas today and will at once dispatch Major Langhorne and two troops across the Rio Grande in pursuit of the Glen Springs raiders.

Colonel F. W. Sibley is at Boquillas directing the second punitive expedition.

Developments indicate that Marathon is to be made an important base. Beyond the river both motor trucks and pack trains will have to be used. Captain Chambers has asked for a full company of twenty-seven motor trucks. He has but nine now, and unless the extra trucks are hurried in Major Langhorne's flying column will have very short rations.

The unknown fate of James Deemer furnishes an additional reason for speed in this bandit chase. The army men want to save Deemer, and the border Americans are thinking mostly of the expedition as an effort to rescue him.

Alvarez, lieutenant-colonel of the Mexicans, who was captured by his American prisoners, and the two other Mexican prisoners, have given more information enlightening and helping the American officers. They agreed the main body of Mexicans came from Laguna, or San Pedro, seventy miles northeast of Torreon. They say their commander there is General Pablo Diaz, and that they traveled north for fifteen days at his command expressly to make the raid at Glen Springs and Boquillas.

The bandit captives have not disclosed who was the leader of the Mexicans. Alvarez undoubtedly was in command of the group that raided Deemer's store and captured Deemer and later the nine mine employes. Supposedly another officer led the Glen Springs raiders.

MEXICAN REGULARS.

W. L. Ryman, chief customs inspector here, returned from the border and confirmed the report of Captain Doe of the river guard, and Captain Fox of the rangers, that Alvarez claims to be a regular Mexican army officer, Ryman said:

Alvarez and the two other captives, Hijano Garcia and Marario Alvarez, all say they are regular Mexican soldiers. General Diaz, they say, was their commander in the Laguna district, but apparently did not come with them.

The dead captain found at Glen Springs with the Mexican army commission was named Felipa Ramarez, and his commission was dated February, 1914. Persistent rumors have placed Villa himself over in the Torreon districts controlled by his sympathizers, and this fits in with assertions of Mexicans that they were taking their prisoners down to the Laguna district "to see Villa."

The fleeing Mexicans were taking with them heavy loot. They had many mules and burros packed with the stock of the Ellis and Wood store at Glen Springs, and two wagons heaped with the stock of Deemer's store and from mining quarters. It was thought likely they were making their way slowly by the road 150 miles around to the Arrendice ranch at Cerro Blanchio, with this loot, though probably most of the force had gone by a shorter trail.

Fifteen miles of "buzzer" line was laid by the field telegraph company. Captain Herbert L. Evans expects to have communication with Boquillas established by Sunday night.

Lorenzo Coy and Frank Rowan came to Marathon last night. At 10 o'clock in the morning Langhorne's men were within ten miles of Boquillas when they left them.

Coy says the Mexicans were traveling slowly.

Major Langhorne told him he had information enough to lead him to believe he could overtake the Mexicans within four or five days by pushing on without relay at the river.

The Mexicans took the road leading southeast toward Castreciendegas. This is the terminus of a branch railroad running west from Monclova. It is more than 200 miles from Boquillas.

A band of forty or fifty Mexicans crossed the river above Eagle Pass, rode twenty miles up the river and crossed back without getting any loot or running into Americans.

Report Mexican Refugees Are Armed

By International News Service.

El Paso, May 10.—Residents of the Rio Grande valley above El Paso are much alarmed over the activities of the large Mexican refugee colony which has been established in the valley by General Fidel Avila, former Villa Governor of the State of Chihuahua, and of General Salvador Cercado, a Huerta general.

It is reported that many of the former Mexican soldiers are armed and mounted and have a semblance of military formation. Troops have been requested by residents of the isolated districts.

"United States troops are not coming out of Mexico. I have been told this officially by Generals Scott and Funston. And Obregon, Mexican Minister of War, will have to back down from his position or fight."

This was the statement of Bishop P. H. Hurst, charged with the interests of the Mormon colonists in the Casas Grandes Valley, where 500 American men, women and children have again been warned to leave for the northern side of the international boundary.

"The Americans in Chihuahua are not wanted there by the United States government," continued Bishop Hurst, "either because they would be in the way in case of war, requiring many soldiers to protect them, or for some other reason not announced.

"The big play Obregon is making at this moment is to urge the release to the Mexican government of the 10,000,000 rounds of ammunition now held by the United States at customs ports along the border. Obregon is claiming that with this ammunition the Mexican military forces can rid the country of bandits and hunt down Villa."

Burlington Troops Going to Plattsburg

Burlington, Vt., May 11.—Troop I of the Second Cavalry, stationed at Fort Ethan Allen, has received unexpected orders to go to Plattsburg, where they will garrison the post in the absence of the 30th Infantry, which has started for the border. Troop T of the same regiment will also go to Plattsburg Friday and the remainder of the troops, excepting Troop F, will go to the same place the 20th to assist in instruction at the student camp. It is therefore thought the Second Cavalry will not go to the border.

Plan to Seize Estates of Clergy in Mexico

By International News Service.

Mexico City, May 11.—It is authoritatively stated that a decree will be issued within a few days directing that the large real estate holdings of the clergy in Mexico shall be taken over by the government.

These properties are valued at more than 100,000,000 pesos. In many cases, it is said, they are registered in the names of other persons.

The government is also planning to mortgage or sell several public buildings which are not in use.

The money obtained from these sources will serve as a reserve fund to guarantee the new government script.

VETO FOR STREET BILL

"If the city of Boston has $600,000 to expend upon its streets that sum might well be expended in repairing and making passable some of its important thoroughfares."

With that significant declaration, Governor McCall sent to the Legislature today a veto of the bill authorizing the city of Boston to expend $600,000 for the improving of I and Dorchester streets in South Boston.

Governor McCall says further in his veto that the Mayor of Boston does not approve the project, that the people of South Boston evidently are not in unanimous support of it and that work would involve an expense upon the Commonwealth. He says that a drawbridge over the reserve channel would impede commerce.

THE VETO MESSAGE.

Governor McCall's veto says:

The engrossed bill authorizes the Board of Street Commissioners of the city of Boston, by its order to widen, extend and construct I street in South Boston "over the South Boston flats and the reserve channel to Summer street, including the construction of a drawbridge over the reserve channel," and it appropriates the treasurer of the city of Boston, in order to pay the city's part of the expense, to issue and sell bonds of the city to an amount not exceeding $600,000. Obviously there would be an additional expense thrown upon the commonwealth, the amount of which does not appear.

I am informed that a similar bill has previously been before the Legislature and has failed of passage. The Mayor of the city of Boston does not approve this bill. There does not appear to be any considerable support for the bill among the people living in that part of South Boston in the vicinity of the proposed new bridge. Another obstacle in the shape of a drawbridge would be put in the way of commerce through the reserve channel, unless indeed the suggestion were carried out that the I street draw and bridge should be discontinued. If that were done existing rights would be destroyed and the Commonwealth compelled to dredge the reserve channel a distance of one thousand feet so as to permit the passage of vessels of ordinary draft.

I can see no good reason why this bill should become a law.

If the city of Boston has $600,000 to expend upon its streets that sum might well be expended in repairing and making passable some of its important thoroughfares and no good reason appears to me why the Commonwealth should be subjected to pay the cost that would be thrown upon it by the construction proposed.

Since the expense involved would be great and its advantages small, if not entirely mythical, I am constrained to return the bill without my approval.

FUSILIER VETS MARCH AND DINE

The 129th anniversary of the Fusilier Veteran Corps was celebrated as usual today by a parade and banquet at the American House. The parade, which was viewed by Governor McCall and Mayor Curley, started from the Armory and passed through Dover street, Columbus avenue, Park square, Charles, Beacon, School, Washington, Elm street to the American House. There were detachments from the Worcester Continentals, Anoskeag Veterans Old Guard of Manchester, Rhode Island Naval and Military Veterans, Bristol Train Artillery, Providence Marine Corps, Fifth Infantry Veterans, Ninth Regiment Veterans, Lexington Minute Men and Myles Standish, M. V. M., Taunton. The speakers at the banquet were Mayor Curley, Brigadier-General E. Leroy Sweetser and Major-General Walter E. Lombard.

OPPOSE NEW SCHOOL FOR FEEBLE MINDED

The proposal to establish a school for feeble-minded in western Massachusetts was reported adversely to the House of Representatives by the Committee on Public Institutions. Senators Peter F. Lawrence and McGonagle of Boston dissent.

STATE TAX HELP MEASURE LOSES

The House of Representatives today defeated a bill for the State to reimburse cities and towns for loss of taxes through exemption of soldiers' property from taxation. Representative Barry of Rockland said that $100,000 of veterans' property is exempted in that town and the burden is too great for the community to bear.

ARREST WATCHMAN, APOLOGY FOLLOWS

Patrolmen Sheehan and Murray discovered a stranger trying doors on Broomfield street today, and on him entering a building, followed him in and made a daring capture. But they discovered then that the man was Frank Underwood, employed as a watchman by a firm which has a contract to guard the buildings he had entered. Underwood was given apologies and released.

Daughter of Widow in Poison Mystery Says Mother Is Innocent

Miss Mary E. Archer, who declares mother's innocence of poisoning charge is self-evident.

FIND GIRL WAS STRUCK IN EYE WITH GLASS

Peter Green, twenty-seven, of Dunham Park, South Boston, was today found guilty by Judge Logan in the South Boston Court of attacking Nora McDonough, a fifteen-year-old girl, with a drinking glass at a wedding Easter Sunday, and sentenced to Deer Island for nine months. He appealed.

Miss McDonough lives at No. 113 Hampden street, Roxbury. She was unconscious for hours and nearly lost the sight of her eye. She was in the court today with a shade over her eye. She had just been discharged from the City Hospital. The girl testified:

"The wedding was held at No. 124 West Sixth street. I went with my aunt. The men began drinking and got into a fight. I saw Green throw a drinking glass. It struck me over the eye and I remembered no more. I had no quarrel with him or anybody. The doctors took nine stitches in the cut."

Patrolman George Gould testified that the doctors told him the girl would be disfigured for life. She is unusually pretty.

Judge Logan said: "I shall impose a substantial sentence. This was a brutal and unprovoked assault. The fact that Green may not have intended to strike the girl does not lessen his offense. Here is a young girl disfigured for life because of his temper."

They day after the wedding Green and Michael Knee assaulted Michael McKeon in a barroom with a drinking glass. Knee received a six-months sentence today and Green an additional month for the barroom row.

SAILORS BATTLE ON TREMONT STREET

A dozen sailors while debating the merits of their respective battleships at target practice, on Tremont Row, early today, started to settle the thing right then and there. A neutral plate glass window suffered heavy casualties, with the result that two officers arrived and arrested Herbert Howker and Joseph Bafest of the Nebraska, who face court today to explain.

BOY GETS $1,200 FOR AUTO INJURY

Rudolph Goos, a thirteen-year-old student in the High School of Commerce, residing on Hines street, Jamaica Plain, was awarded $1,200 by a jury in the Superior Civil Court today. Goos sued A. G. Van Nostrand for injuries caused by the automobile the defendant was operating.

SEVERAL QUINCY HOMES AND ICE PLANT AFIRE

The icehouse of the Granite City Ice Company on Wendell road, Quincy Neck, caught from a brush fire today and burned. A number of houses on the road caught from the icehouse and general alarms were sounded in Quincy and Braintree, while help was sent from Weymouth before the various fires were brought under control.

Mrs. Lawrence Abbott, Jr., wife of the manager of the company, discovered the brush fire and telephoned the fire department. A chemical wagon was sent but by the time it arrived a small fire had started from sparks on the roof.

The fire alarm was sounded, but when the apparatus arrived, flames were bursting from every part of the structure. Since the building is half in Braintree and half in Quincy, general alarms were sounded for both departments, and help was called from Weymouth.

The nearest hydrant was 1,095 feet away, so after a trial of this and a discovery that the water pressure was not what it should be, the engine were lined up along the river and pumped its waters direct on the ice house.

The home of David Bowers, near the ice house, and his garage, caught. The firemen drowned their fire, and by a certain of water protected that building from further harm.

Other homes which caught were those of Mrs. Jefferson Thayer, George Pratt, William Boss and a double house occupied by W. G. Reinke and J. E. Davis. These small fires were quickly extinguished.

The ice house was destroyed, and the 5,000 tons of ice it contained were left in a great heap, covered with ashes and cinders and half melted by the heat.

Isaac L. Abbott, president of the ice company, said:

"We figured our plant was worth $16,000. It was more than that. The ice house at $2 a ton was worth about $5,000. We will not be able to save much of that."

HOLD QUINCY MAN ON WIFE'S CHARGE

Alphonso Cataldi of Quincy street, Quincy, appeared in the Quincy district court today and pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault and battery on his wife. His case was continued until May 18 and he was held in $1,000.

Cataldi and his brother-in-law, Attilio Pandolini, were arrested last Sunday night for alleged fighting over the former's domestic troubles, which caused his two weeks' bride to leave him.

'PLOT' SAYS POISON SUSPECT

ered enough arsenic in the body of Andrews, and of some other poison in the viscera, body secretly exhumed, to have caused death.

3—Intimations that another body had already been dug up and that many more are shortly to follow into the light of the coroner's investigation.

4—Ralph Frost, an inquest witness who had charge of most of the undertaking cases at the home, said Andrews, Mrs. Alice Gowdy and Michael Gilligan, three allegedly suspicious cases, were included in his list of twenty-six.

5—Frank B. Smith, embalmer in the same cases, said his embalming fluid contained several poisons, the nature of which is unknown to him.

PRISONER'S STATEMENT.

Mrs. Gilligan gave out this statement tonight:

"I'll tell all I know of this ghastly business. It began soon after Mr. Andrews died. I found the authorities were trying to connect his death with some crime on the part of a person in the home. A few of my near neighbors in Windsor started from there for their own profit.

"After Mr. Andrews' death an investigation was started by Coroner Calhoun and State Attorney Alcorn.

"Dr. Kling, who was acting coroner in Windsor and also Mr. Andrews' attending physician, asked to examine the body. He was willing to perform an autopsy a short time after the death.

"Inmates of the home told me that they had been stopped on the street and told that they were likely to be poisoned if they stayed in the home. One old woman, it was thought that a glass of lemonade given him for a cold had been drugged. The doctor removed the old man's fears by drinking the lemonade himself.

"Every few months I was informed time after time that the authorities were prowling around instilling fear. But I knew I had done no wrong. I had nothing to fear.

LYMATE'S FEEBLE.

"I continued the management of the home and solicited patronage. Many of the inmates died. That is not strange. They were sent to the home when they were all too old and feeble to care for themselves. Their relatives left them a burden. Most of them were sick of advanced age. In most cases the relatives were notified when death came; in some cases, however, the inmate had been abandoned and I was told not to notify any one.

"I have had hundreds of aged and helpless and infirm, and have maintained in their declining days all there was such comfort as the home affords. I think they were all satisfied.

"When I was arrested I asked the police if it would not be better for me to get a lawyer. They told me they were friendly to me. They said I should follow their advice and carry the thing through without notoriety. I followed their advice and I find myself in the witness box, out a hearing.

"The police knows nothing of my side of the case and know less about the real facts behind my arrest and imprisonment.

"When I was locked up here Captain Hurley came to me. He again advised me as a friend and told me that they had four charges of murder against me. He said: 'If you sign a confession admitting one we will drop the other three.'

REFUSED TO SIGN.

"Thank God, I did not follow his advice. By this time he would have gained the benefit of his 'advice' by my conviction of the awful crime of murder. I am as innocent of ever doing to an inmate of my home in Windsor as a babe unborn. I am a little child.

"I am told it is said that I took persons under a life contract and tried to make a profit by poisoning them. An examination of my books, they have all been taken by the police, will show how absurd is such a charge.

"I am today in jail charged with murder. I know not a thing of the evidence against me, nor who it is I am suspected of having murdered."

Accused Woman Prays for Chance to Prove Poison Charge False

By RUTH M. BYERS.

Hartford, May 11.—"This whole affair has been framed up to get me out of Windsor. People I never could trust brought me here. Some day I shall have my chance to prove that all I am facing now is nothing but persecution."

Amy Archer-Gilligan made this statement in her own behalf. She tried to explain. She tried pitifully hard. But her strength was not equal to the ordeal.

NEAR COLLAPSE.

The tired little woman was near collapse at one point as she entered the sheriff's private ante-room in the Hartford county jail. But there were no tears, no hysterics. There was just the same self-mastery and the same nervous, highly reined energy that has characterized Mrs. Gilligan since her arrest. The plain, white shirtwaist and worn, black skirt seemed almost austere in their extreme simplicity.

There were several persons waiting for Mrs. Gilligan as she entered the room, but her daughter Mary was the only one she seemed to recognize. With a stifled exclamation the mother drew the girl toward her as she sank into a nearby chair. No one else was stationed in the silent room for a few minutes except these two.

ATTACK HER PROPERTY.

"Girl, you know everything I've done all my life was for you." The pathetic wistfulness of the thin, high voice was more heart-rending than that you could ever be.

"You know that I have worked hard all my life simply for you. I have slaved and worked and toiled without things, just to make you happy. And now it has come to just this."

Then some one told Mrs. Gilligan that seven attachments had just been issued by her creditors to tie up all her property. The news made little impression. The fighting spirit of the mother before was strangely lacking. Broken in spirit, and on the verge of collapse, this woman, around whom the police are trying to weave charges that place her in a class with the most infamous wholesale murderesses in history, simply showed how shattered the events of the last few days have left her.

OPIATES TO QUIET HER.

It has been necessary to give opiates to quiet her. Hour after hour she sat silently on the edge of her bed, refusing to eat with her hands in her lap or even to put her hands, refusing all food. Mrs. Gilligan is not the sort of woman who cries. She is brooding deep in her heart over the past and the future. They tell you that when a door is closed, this life showed how terrible has been the ordeal she had faced in the solitude of her cell.

Mrs. Gilligan asked particularly after each one of the inmates of her home. She questioned her daughter, and her sister, Mrs. Catherine Duggan, of Westerville, who was on her first visit to the jail, as to the care they were giving the sick people.

WOULDN'T SEE FRIENDS.

She advised a change of diet for a few. Miss Archer, in trying to comfort her mother, happened to mention the names of several friends who wanted to visit Mrs. Gilligan.

"Oh, tell them not to come," the tired voice insisted. Then it added:

I can't bear to see anyone I know just now. I have always been respected and I can't face the world again until this awful charge has been removed from our name.

Sometimes I think I shall never be glad my head up again because of the disgrace of this thing.

And then, clinging to her daughter's hand as though she would never let it go, the mother bowed her head over the table. She continued wearily:

I am trying not to worry. If only I could sleep I would be all right. I just sit here and think all through the night.

And one after another, black and hopeless things come into my mind, even though I keep telling myself that I mean to face this thing bravely.

"I AM NOT AFRAID."

I am not afraid. But this whole affair is so unbelievable, and sometimes my mind just fails to grasp all it means, even now, to me and mine.

And that is why Mrs. Gilligan has not yet started on any plans for her defense. Benedict M. Holden, her attorney, has thought it wise to give her a little more time to gain command of herself before he starts building up his defense case.

Rumors are being circulated in Hartford that Mrs. Gilligan may seek to prove Andrews was a cripple. But the rumor is not substantiated. Until Mrs. Gilligan is in better physical condition no definite outline of her defense can be attempted.

"WILL PROVE IT'S NOT SO."

It was learned from Miss Archer at the Home for Aged that there has been no trouble from this in the house for the last two or three years.

The point was raised in reference to the statement recently that Mrs. Archer said she bought arsenic for the purpose of ridding the house of rats and cats.

Miss Archer said her mother's standing and character would themselves guarantee that the charge against her would be shown to be a conspiracy.

'WOMAN BISHOP,' IS WARNING OF RECTOR

"We'll soon have a woman for bishop," declared Rev. David B. Mathews, rector of St. Paul's Church, Brockton, at the second day's session of the annual convention of Huntington Hall when the subject of admitting women delegates came up.

Rector Mathews spoke against a motion of George F. Selfridge of Boston who proposed a committee of five ministers and six laymen to consider the subject and present it before the next convention.

This motion was carried. An amendment will be made to the constitution and canons next year and then the matter will be discussed in all its distinctive bearings before the convention upon this, Rector Mathews said.

"I am thoroughly opposed to the admission of women as delegates to this convention. We are trying hard to get the men to church and they say the women are driving them from church. Shall we add to the presence of women delegates in this convention, you will find the men going back to the days of Adam and Eve and have to have a woman bishop, if things keep on the same. I protest."

Rev. George V. Russell, rector of All Saints' Church, Methuen, asked permission from the committee of constitution and canons to change the phrase which pertains to allow women a vote in his parish.

Rev. H. K. Bartow of Cohasset made a strong defence in behalf of women.

After a prolonged debate about preparedness, especially military preparedness, the convention went on record as advocating it in the words of Bishop Lawrence in his address before the delegates.

Rev. Malcolm Taylor of Taunton criticised parishes who were spending more money for music than for their rector's salary. He cited instances of a church which gave its minister $1,200 and spent $3,500 on music.

FLOWER LOVERS FLOCK TO SHOW

Flower lovers from all parts of the state are flocking to Horticultural Hall to view the most extensive May flower show that the Massachusetts Horticultural Society has put on in its eighty-seven years' history.

One of the features, from the estate of Lars Anderson at Brookline, is an exhibit of dwarf Japanese evergreen plants, one of which is 200 years old, which are shown for the first time in this country. Another attractive exhibit is a miniature Japanese garden, from Penn, the florist. There are shown of all varieties, grown by F. R. Pierson Company of Tarrytown, N. Y., known as "king of the American Beauty growers," and A. M. Davenport of Watertown exhibits a fascinating display of rhododendrons, hydrangeas, sloxinias, sacetas, orchids and azaleas, set off with ferns and potted plants.

PETITION AGAINST MERRIMAC WOOLEN

ELKS ASKED TO ATTEND NAVAL CELEBRATION

A special request for all Elks to attend the Naval Day celebration on next Saturday has been mailed to the entire membership of Boston Lodge. The request in the form of a letter and circular reproducing an invitation for all Elks to attend from the Mayor, who is a member of Boston Lodge.

I desire to especially call your attention to the invitation by Hon. Peter Honan, the Mayor of Boston, to attend a Naval Day celebration that will surpass anything yet attempted in Boston.

Never before this day carried greater significance than at the present time when the whole world is convulsed in the agonies of a gigantic struggle.

As our country has always taken a particular interest in occasions of this kind, we should manifest patriotically join in the celebration of Naval Day, which will display our love for the American flag and for the boys who so nobly risk their lives for the protection and defence of all it represents.

Let us prove by our attendance our sincere appreciation of an opportunity to review our country's efforts in the way of naval and preparedness which may never again be presented during the present generation.

The Cabaret de la Mer which will be held at Mechanics Building as a part of the navy day celebration, includes a particularly interesting program. The boxing bouts are interspersed between a program of vocal selections by well known artists and various other exhibition dances of the moment.

Miss Jane Crose, daughter of Captain William M. Crose of the battleship Massachusetts, will sing a group of songs under the direction of Mme. Futrelle, daughter of the late Jacques Futrelle, will sing a duet.

The complete program follows:

TO ELECT 8 METHODIST BISHOPS

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., May 11.—Expected to report about May 15, the committee known as the Episcopal committee of the Methodist Episcopal convention will recommend, it is said, that eight new bishops be elected during the present deliberations.

There are three vacancies, caused by death, which are to be filled, and these vacancies will leave five additional bishops to be selected.

Although an active canvas on the part of a candidate for the bishopric is forbidden, friends of various prospective nominees are already at work in their behalf and several names have been prominently mentioned. Influential delegates are of the opinion that the following seven well known episcopalists will receive sufficient votes to elect them in the highest post in the Methodist Episcopal church.

Dr. C. B. Mitchell, Chicago; Dr. E. C. Locke, Los Angeles; Dr. Thomas Nicholson, North Dakota; Chancellor Franklin Hamilton, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Frank W. Luce, Cleveland; Dr. Herbert Welch, Lincoln, Pennsylvania, and Dr. A. W. Leonard, Seattle.

The election of the bishops will be by ballot, which will be conducted with strict secrecy and in the presence of none but the delegates to the convention.

Previous instructions or agreements in favor of any candidate or candidates are forbidden. Two-thirds of the delegates voting are required for a choice.

GUARDIAN APPEALS IN THOMAS WILL CASE

An appeal has been entered in the Norfolk Superior Court by Freida A. Taylor against allowing the will of Paul F. Thomas of Brookline. Miss Taylor has the two children of Paul F. Thomas under her guardianship. Paul F. Thomas, Jr., and Mavis H. Thomas, and contends that the will was improperly executed, that the testator was of unsound mind and unduly influenced by Charles U. Thomas, his father.

Thomas left his household and personal effects and property to his father, Charles Thomas, and others left to his employes and the rest of his property to trustees, who are to pay the net income to his father, who is to take care of the two minor children.

"BIRTH OF A NATION" RETURNS TO BOSTON

That much discussed and most wonderful of productions, "The Birth of a Nation," will return to the Majestic Theatre on Saturday afternoon of this week to open a limited engagement, and will continue for a brief period every week day afternoon and evening. "The Birth of a Nation" has made a record for its long run in Boston which has never been equalled. It first appeared at the Tremont, and when obliged to move, in August, it went to the Majestic and continued until October 29, completing an unprecedented run of thirty weeks, or 210 consecutive performances. The seat sale opens at the Majestic Theatre today, and a special scale of prices announced.

HOUSE TO ACT SOON IN MARSHALL CASE

Washington, May 11.—Early action on impeachment charges against District Attorney H. Snowden Marshall is contemplated by the House Judiciary Committee in charge of the investigation of the District attorney's conduct. Chairman Webb of the committee said today that he expected within a week a report from the subcommittee.

All of the charges against the District Attorney grew out of his controversy with Federal Commissioner Marshall Bullock, who was indicted in New York for complicity in anti-neutrality plots.

FIND HERRICK BOY AFTER LONG SEARCH

Cleveland, O., May 11.—After an all-night search by Cleveland Heights residents, police, firemen and boy scouts, four-year-old Clay Herrick, son of Clay Herrick, second vice-pres. of Myron T. Herrick, former Ambassador to France, was found in a coal house within one hundred feet of his home early today by a neighbor. The little fellow had been missing since 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

SAWYER MILK BILL DEFEATED IN HOUSE

Legislation to compel milk contractors to make monthly payments to producers was defeated by the House this afternoon by a vote of 85 to 23. Representative Roland D. Sawyer, the clergyman-legislator from Ware, who filed the bill, declared that it was aimed at the milk monopoly of Boston contractors.

HELD FOR CRIMES OF 'DOUBLE'

At the Charlestown State Prison, in the person of Gilbert Sargent of Medford, recently sentenced for fraudulently obtaining $4,814 from Lee, Higginson & Co., Ernest C. Divine, a wealthy theatre owner of Chicago, discovered the double who has cost him nearly half a million dollars, and all but placed him in prison.

Divine's convict double, under the aliases Richard F. Parker, Robert W. Barnett, William H. Nash, William Rush and Norman H. Pow, has made his living by financial schemes of almost incredible subtlety and unshakable nerve, that kept him free for years. Some of the forgeries were finally blamed on Divine, who lived in Chicago, but who had the misfortune not only to resemble Sargent but to write a hand so like the convict's that he himself could not tell one signature from the other.

Both men have a peculiar pimple on the nose; both have brown hair; both have a distinguishing habit of holding up the corner of their mouths while talking; both comb back their hair in the same way.

ANOTHER THEFT CHARGE.

Then, too, Mrs. Divine, Divine's mother, was named Parker before her marriage. The crime for which Divine was arrested and all but convicted was committed by Sargent under the alias Richard F. Parker, and criminologists declare that nearly nine-tenths of criminals take their mother's maiden name for an alias.

This crime was the theft of $30,000 in bonds from A. H. Turner & Company of Boston. It occurred in 1909. "Richard F. Parker," who had opened offices in Worcester as a structural iron contractor, and had won a speedy reputation among wealthy Worcester residents as a conservative man of affairs, dropped into the office of the Turner firm.

He had an interview with Mr. Turner, and took bonds valued at $30,000.75, giving a check in payment. That was the last seen of "Parker," and the check was a forgery. The resulting hunt for the missing "structural iron contractor" linked him with the notorious Ponzi, who previously passed a forged check on E. H. Gay & Company of Boston for $15,000. The assistant manager of the banking house, who handled the deal, was discharged, and finally went to Chicago.

ARREST DIVINE.

Boston police went to Chicago to interview the former assistant manager of Gay & Company. One morning a Boston plain-clothes man happened to see Mr. Divine, who was a bond broker, and Mr. Divine laid a hand upon Mr. Divine's shoulder.

For twenty-four hours he was held incommunicado. Then he was permitted to see his lawyer, who had retained as attorney Fred D. Jackson. When the Boston detective had succeeded in getting extradition papers from Governor Deneen, Mr. Jackson sued out a writ of habeas corpus.

Mr. Turner, the cashier, and stenographer swore in court to Mr. Divine's identity, and Mr. Divine's hand was held on the witness stand for four hours.

He was asked to write the name of "Richard F. Parker." He had never seen the forged check. He dashed off the name without hesitation.

Handwriting experts were called in. They swore that the hand that had signed the name of Parker in court had written the forged check.

Divine escaped only by an iron-clad alibi. He proved that on the day of the swindle he sent a telegram for a Chicago bank president and could not possibly have been in Boston.

GILCHRIST CO. SENDS SIX TO PLATTSBURG

The Gilchrist company is making an unprecedentedly large showing for a company of its size, six of the members of its organization.

The managers decided to give to these six men free board and lodging at the Plattsburg military camp with full pay, and also to pay for the entire camp outfit, as well as for all traveling expenses to and from there, together with, including railroad fare to and from the camp.

At a meeting called for that purpose, the six men selected accepted this offer with much appreciation, and promised to make every effort to bring honor and glory to the Gilchrist Company. The Gilchrist volunteers are: Frank Ettis, Stewart Ferris, Walter S. Sexton, R. Barbine, William O'Connor and Joseph Roule.

UPROAR IN PARLIAMENT OVER ILLEGAL IRISH EXECUTIONS

were tried by general court-martial. William Kent was acquitted, but Thomas was found guilty and sentenced to death, the court-martial's edict being carried out twenty-four hours later.

Chief of the new developments, most of which centre around the executions of the revolution leaders, is that three Irish citizens, unarmed and non-combatants, were executed by British officers without a trial and before martial law was actually in operation.

DEMAND PUBLIC INQUIRY.

The new developments are:

1—The shooting by British officers of F. Sheehy Skeffington, distinguished citizen of Dublin and editor of the Irish Citizen; and of two other Irish journalists, without a trial and when, so far as is known, there was absolutely no charge against them.

2—The fact that this information was forthcoming directly after Premier Asquith announced that so far as he knew no prisoner had been shot in Ireland without a trial.

3—Demands that there be a public inquiry into the unwarranted executions.

4—The announcement, following a show of criticism on the part of Irish members, that it was the premier's hope that further extreme measures of the revolutionists were needless, although Asquith would give no definite understanding to that effect.

5—An even later declaration of martial rule on executions during the debate of the Irish question in Parliament today.

6—The announcement that the bodies of the three summarily executed men were buried in the barracks at Portobello, and Mrs. Skeffington's charge that all information had been denied her, and that even her husband's body had been denied her.

7—The rumor that there was some feeling against Skeffington because he had accused the military authorities of "burning their Prussian plans in Ireland."

8—The delayed announcement of the resignation of Baron Wimborne, Lord Lieutenant for Ireland.

9—The appointment of a Royal Commission to investigate the cause of the Irish revolt.

10—The issuance of a manifesto by the Nationalists denouncing the revolution, but also attacking the Carson "revolt" at the time of the Home Rule bill agitation.

11—The official announcement by Lord Cecil, Minister of War Trade and Parliamentary Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, that no official or other communication had been received from the American government relative to the shooting of prisoners in Ireland.

12—Official admissions that serious blunders had been made in Ireland.

13—The making public of instructions to Sir John Maxwell, while placed he was allowed a free hand in suppressing the revolution. This is the first execution in Ireland outside of Dublin.

Parliament was in an uproar over the announcement of the deaths of Skeffington and the two unnamed journalists. Several members were on their feet in an instant.

The Premier announced that the act, referring to the Skeffington execution, was unwarranted by the military authorities; that the matter was under investigation, and that the British officers concerned had been arrested and would be court-martialed.

Regarding the two other summary executions, the Premier said an investigation would be made. He said the military authorities had no responsibility for them, and that he had no particulars as yet.

The three men were shot to death in the Portello barracks. Their bodies were interred in the barracks.

A letter received from the widow of Skeffington, and made public to members of the House of Commons, created a profound stir. The letter follows:

My husband was arrested on April 25, when returning home on the second day of the Irish uprising.

He was tried (charge unknown) and shot forthwith.

He was unarmed and a non-combatant, being well known as a pacifist, and also as an Irish Nationalist.

I would take it as the greatest favor to his memory that you would see that these facts are known in England, to prevent further tragedies while there is time.

I have these facts from a most reliable source, but I have as yet no official information, and have not been allowed even to see my husband, receive his message or take away his body for burial.

On April 7 Skeffington wrote a letter to the New Statesman, in which he said:

The situation in Ireland is extremely grave. Thanks for the silence of the daily press, the military authorities are pursuing their Prussian plans in Ireland unobserved by the British public.

When the explosion which they have provoked occurs, they will endeavor to delude the British public as to where the responsibility lies.

I write in the hope that, despite the veto ever there may be enough sanity and common sense left to restrain the militarists while there is yet time.

The Freeman's Journal, published in Dublin, announced that Skeffington's body had been interred at the barracks on Monday and removed to the Glasnevin cemetery. According to the Journal, Skeffington was executed in the Portobello barracks.

Premier Asquith told Commons that he believed there would be no further necessity to proceed to extreme measures with the Irish revolutionists. Sir Roger Casement, he said, would probably be placed on trial on Monday.

The Marquis of Crewe announced the retirement of Lord Wimborne and the appointment of a Royalist investigating Commission.

The latter, it was explained, would inquire into the recent outbreak and into the conduct of the civil and military authorities.

Redmond Party Attacks Revolt and Executions

By International News Service.

London, May 11.—The Irish Parliamentary party has issued a manifesto condemning the Dublin revolt as a dangerous blow to the heart and hopes of Ireland. It appeals to the Irish people to choose between a futile revolution and anarchy and the full support of the constitutional movement. Dealing with the Dublin rising, the manifesto states:

It is true that Ireland has been bitterly provoked by the growth of a similar revolutionary movement in another portion of the country, backed by an army in revolt and shocked and horrified by military executions in Dublin. Nevertheless, the Irish people have had no hesitation in condemning the rising.

The statement, in conclusion, says there is no doubt as to the choice of the Irish people, and adds:

If they do not want the constitutional movement they do not want us. Without their support, we are engaged in an impossible task; with it, we will be able to complete the fabric of Irish reform and Irish liberty. We shall lead the Irish people into the Parliament house for which they have been praying and working for over a century.

The party resolved that the inquiry into the revolt must be impartial and deal with the government's conduct which has existed for the last three years. It demanded the stoppage of the executions and the immediate withdrawal of martial law as well as government compensation for damaged property.

Skeffington in Boston Last Fall for Lecture

F. Sheehy Skeffington was in Boston last Fall while on a lecture tour in this country. He spoke in Worcester and several other New England cities. He sketched conditions in Ireland, predicted the recent Irish outbreak and the downfall of John Redmond.

Skeffington, who had been an ardent backer of Redmond, and a contributing editor to one of the latter's publications in Ireland, became a leader in the anti-recruiting movement. He spoke in Dublin streets day after day, was arrested, tried without jury, convicted under the Defence of the Realm Act and sent to Portland Prison. He went on a hunger strike, was released on parole and came to America to plead his cause.

"I'm going back," he said in parting, "and expect to be in jail by Christmas."

His wife was the leader of the Irish militant suffragettes, and is an ardent supporter of the suffrage cause.

Germans Vote to Rebuild Towns

By International News Service.

Berlin, May 11.—The Reichstag today passed on first reading the bill providing for the reconstruction of villages in Alsace-Lorraine destroyed by the French and those in East Prussia ruined during the early Russian invasion.

Herr Ziehr, member from Gumbinnen, declared that in the district more than 2,000 civilians had been wantonly killed or maimed by the Russians.

DUTCH URGE NEW PEACE MOVE BY U. S.

The Hague, May 11.—The Netherlands anti-war council has cabled Hamilton Holt of New York that it considers Germany's reference to peace in her submarine note to the United States a fresh inducement for united neutral mediatory action.

The council suggests the co-operation of the American peace societies in urging President Wilson to promote a neutral conference to offer mediation.

FRANCE TO SEND RELICS TO BAZAAR

New York, May 11.—The French government has notified the executive committee in charge of the arrangements for the allied bazaar, which will be held in the Grand Central Palace June 2 to June 14, that it will send one of the most complete collections of exhibits ever shown in connection with the war in Europe.

BELIEVE U. S. IS TAKING LEAD FOR PEACE

By International News Service.

Washington, May 11.—Indications are at hand that the United States is disposed to comply with Pope Benedict's suggestion that an effort be made to bring about peace.

Diplomats especially attach significance to a series of incidents which have occurred since the receipt by President Wilson on Saturday of the communication from the Pope.

The interpretation based on these incidents is that the Administration is considering the subject and has already taken steps to ascertain the views of the allies.

Since Monday night several important conferences have been held and it is believed they related to peace proposals.

It is regarded as unlikely here that President Wilson would approach other belligerent powers until he had received an intimation from London as to the attitude British would be in basis for negotiations for peace were proposed.

Ambassador Spring-Rice is expected to cable to London any information and suggestions he receives here that relate to peace and will communicate the replies from his government to Secretary Lansing.

The belief prevails here that prior to the receipt of Germany's reply to the United States, in which the German government made reference to its desire that the war might be ended, Ambassador Gerard had informed this government of what occurred at his conference with Emperor William at General Headquarters.

Report Easier Terms in German Peace Bid

By International News Service.

London, May 11.—The Amsterdam correspondent of the Express states that exceptional importance is attached in Berlin to the fact that Ambassador Gerard sent Secretary Grew of the embassy to Copenhagen in order to telegraph a long report to Washington regarding the Ambassador's conference with the Kaiser, Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg and Foreign Secretary von Jagow.

Hunger is forcing the Germans to the direction of a complete surrender. Before this takes place the Kaiser is anxious to secure mediation, believing better terms could be made now than later.

From a good source it is gathered that the Kaiser's projected terms would be far easier now than six months ago.

He would forego annexation in the west and agree to an indemnity being paid Belgium.

German troops would be ordered to be withdrawn from Belgium before or immediately after the armistice was arranged. Germany will insist on Poland becoming autonomous, but nothing would stand in the way of reconciliation of the former boundaries of Serbia and Montenegro.

Germany would expect to receive her colonies back.

RUSSIAN ARMY IS NEARING BAGDAD

By International News Service.

London, May 11.—The Russian armies of the Grand Duke Nicholas are within 100 miles of Bagdad. Great gains of territory are being made, according to news from the front.

While the eyes of the world have been fastened on Verdun, the Grand Duke is rapidly carrying out his manoeuvres and is now in a position to launch, with great forces, a final, decisive drive on Constantinople through Bagdad.

An official statement issued by the Russian War Office announces the capture of Wasrihirin, 100 miles northeast of Bagdad.

The Turkish War Office simultaneously reports the repulse of Russian attacks in the Caucasus with heavy losses. The capture of several prisoners and much booty is also claimed by the Turks.

As a measure of reprisal against the Russian fleet, the Turkish cruiser Ibrahim is reported to have destroyed, between Eupatoria and Sebastopol, one ship of some 4,000 tons and a number of sailing vessels.

The Turkish artillery is reported to have repulsed an enemy guardship west of Koucheada.

Russian troops are also showing an increase in activity on the Eastern front, according to an official report from Austrian headquarters, under date of Wednesday. The report issued at Vienna follows:

"In eastern Galicia and Volhynia increased activity by advanced enemy detachments was noted. No special events of importance occurred.

"On the Italian front, after conducting a lively bombardment yesterday of our positions at Goerz (Gorizia) Bridgehead and on Doberdo plateau, the enemy this morning attacked several times at San Martino, but was repulsed every time.

"At various points on the Carinthian and East Tyrol fronts there was increased artillery activity."

WOMEN SEE WILSON IN SURPRISE VISIT

Washington, May 11.—Three young women today broke White House precedent and interrupted President Wilson's official duties. They slipped unannounced into the President executive office while he was conferring with Senator Kern of Indiana. It was learned there that one of the girls was Miss Helen Alden. They were seeking subscriptions for a magazine, in a popularity contest.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM GAINS IN FIERCE FIGHTING AT VERDUN

London, May 11.—Claims by the French that German troops suffered a serious check at Verdun were followed by the Berlin report announcing the repulse of two attacks by the French on the west bank of the Meuse, northwest of Verdun.

The Paris report says that the Germans made a furious attack upon French trenches west of the small lake near Vaux on the east bank of the Meuse, but the communique issued by the War Office this afternoon states that they were repulsed with the bayonet.

The attacks like that made yesterday on Hill No. 287, is believed by the French to be an effort by the Crown Prince to find a weak spot in the lines of the Verdun defenders. Thus far all his attempts have resulted in failure.

The communique also reports a violent bombardment directed by the Germans against the French at Avocourt wood, but states that elsewhere on the Verdun front there was no break in the lull.

FRENCH STATEMENT.

The text of the French official communique follows:

"In Champagne our destructive fire has demolished a German trench about 100 yards long southeast of Tapure.

"On the left bank of the Meuse there was a rather active artillery duel in the region of Avocourt Wood.

"On the right bank a German attack launched about two o'clock this morning against our positions west of Vaux Lake was repulsed with the bayonet and with grenades.

"Comparative calm prevails on the rest of the front.

"On the night of May 10 four of our bombarding aeroplanes threw 26 shells on the stations at Dammvillers and Etain, and on the aerdome near Foameix, where a fire broke out."

GERMAN STATEMENT.

Official statement:

"Western theatre of war—German aeroplanes yesterday dropped bombs on Dunkirk and on railroads near Adinkirk.

"West of the Meuse the French yesterday again attacked near Le Mort Homme, and in the evening they also attacked southwest of Hill No. 304. Both attacks broke down under the fire of our machine guns and a curtain of fire from artillery, the enemy suffering considerable losses.

"A Bavarian patrol in Canard Forest, capturing fifty-four French soldiers. The number of wounded French prisoners taken since May 4 in the combats about Hill No. 304 has reached a total of fifty-three officers and 1,315 soldiers.

"East of the Meuse there were hand grenade combats in the districts of Caillette wood during the entire night.

"A French attack in the forest was repulsed."

New Submarine Orders Received

By International News Service.

Washington, May 11.—All German submarine commanders have received the latest orders transmitted by the Admiralty at the direction of Emperor William, it was officially announced in Berlin today. German officials are therefore confident that any further errors that might lead to complications between this country and the United States will be avoided.

Publication of the American note accepting the recent reply to the ultimatum from President Wilson removed the last lingering feeling of tension in Berlin. The belief prevails in official circles in Germany that all danger of complications has been removed. This belief is reflected on the Berlin bourse, where prices are higher than for several months. As compared with previous trading, conditions may almost be said to be "booming" in Germany.

OBSTACLES REMOVED.

Some of the German newspapers declare the exchange of notes resulted in a victory for Germany, but the German press in general is inclined to let the communications speak for themselves.

Official acceptance by Germany of responsibility for torpedoing the channel steamer Sussex, coupled with unofficial advices that Germany accepted the terms of the latest American note on the general subject, have served to clear away the obstacles which threatened the good relations between the two countries.

Germany's assumption of wrongdoing in the Sussex case is regarded as full and final, so that the case will be closed when the amount of indemnity due injured Americans has been determined. As to principles, the two nations are in entire accord now that Germany admits that a German torpedo hit the Sussex in violation of assurances given the United States, expresses regret that the incident occurred and announces that the offending submarine commander already has been punished.

TAKEN AS ACQUIESCENCE.

It is understood Berlin will not answer the latest note from Secretary Lansing, making plain that the United States accepts Germany's assurances of abandonment of the methods of submarine warfare without a contingent understanding as to the manner in which this country shall deal with Great Britain.

The acceptance of the latest American note by Germany in silence will be taken here as the full acquiescence of that government in the position taken by the United States.

AUSTRALIA ISSUES BIG LOAN FOR WAR

By International News Service.

Melbourne, Australia, May 11.—A war loan of $250,000,000 is being raised by the Commonwealth of Australia.

WAR SUMMARY

The German attacks against Verdun were continued today with the utmost vigor, though the French official bulletin asserts the attacks were repulsed.

It is difficult to determine just what the situation about Verdun is, for the French and German bulletins, for the first time since the fighting began, are contradictory on essential points.

The fact seems to be that the Germans are gradually encircling Hill 304, as well as thrusting their lines toward Verdun southwest of Hill 304. Their trenches also extend to a portion of the north slope of the hill and, unless their progress is decisively checked, they may soon capture this dominating height.

The latest German attack was near the pond of Vaux. The French say it failed.

Increased Russian activity, and attacks by the Italians, are reported from Vienna.

Man on Cymric Had Taken Out First U.S. Papers

By International News Service.

London, May 11.—A Queenstown dispatch to the Evening News states that a Belgian who had taken out his first naturalization papers in the United States was aboard the liner Cymric when that vessel was torpedoed by a German submarine.

Six passengers were aboard the Cymric. They were D. W. Lewis, D. Lucas, A. H. Varien, A. F. Piggford and H. Laing, all Englishmen, and P. Flintk, a Russian.

TEUTONS MASS BIG GUNS IN BALKANS

Paris, May 11.—An Athens dispatch to the Havas Agency says there was an artillery fortillade at three points on the Doiran-Gieveli sector. The Germans, the dispatch adds, are placing numerous 17-inch guns along the front.

HOW I INCREASED MY WEIGHT

Thin People Tell How They Put On New Flesh By Harmless Home Method

"Young Hermana," the clever Chicago boxer (photo above) writes to say "I dropped in weight to 124 pounds which caused my manager much alarm. He suggested Sargol. I had not finished my second box when I found I had increased 15 pounds. It is good, solid, healthy flesh put on by your wonderful Sargol." "When I began taking Sargol I weighed 123 pounds. The day I took the last I weighed 136 pounds. I was awful thin, my face was pale, my cheeks sunk in, but now my face is fat and round," states a gentleman from New Orleans. "I weighed 121 pounds when I commenced to take Sargol and now I weigh 165. If you would have seen me before I took it you would not believe I was the same person," declares Mrs. Maggie Neater in reporting her 24 pound gain in weight.

Sargol succeeds because it seems to make the food work and stick. With perfect assimilation the underlying, strengthening, flesh-making materials in the food instead of passing off in waste, are carried to all the body to build fresh, fat and muscular tissue upon your skin and bones. The testimony of hundreds of men and women, old and young, is the best answer as to whether Sargol has built flesh. It isn't a question of how these people looked or felt or what their friends said or thought. They just began to take Sargol and began to get fat, and wrote to tell us about it. To better introduce the merits of Sargol in this vicinity we want to send to every thin man and woman reader of this paper who wants to increase weight, a 50c package of Sargol Free. Either Sargol will increase your weight or it won't and the only way you can know is to try it. Weigh yourself and measure yourself before you begin and after you finish and let the scales tell the story. No drastic diet, flesh creams, massages, oils or emulsions but a safe, harmless home treatment that can be taken privately. Friends may consult you about it. Many druggists have reported increased sales that have brought you new customers. Sargol is sold by druggists who have been appointed as agents, or you can get it direct if you prefer.

GERARD CRITIC EXPELLED BY GERMANS

Berlin, via Amsterdam, May 11.—Colonel Edwin Emerson, an American war correspondent, has been expelled by the German government, it was reported here today.

The cause of the reported action on the part of the authorities is an article by Colonel Emerson published in last Saturday's issue of the Continental Times, a pro-German newspaper printed in the English language in Amsterdam. In it Ambassador Gerard was indirectly accused of having informed the British government in advance of the gun running expedition of Sir Roger Casement, a certain American correspondent being charged with complicity in the alleged betrayal.

Incensed by Colonel Emerson's insinuations, which followed a series of attacks made by a certain element of the press charging the Ambassador with anti-German and pro-British proclivities, Mr. Gerard gave a lengthy interview to the National Zeitung emphatically denying the accusation and asserting that he had done all in his power to avert a break between Germany and the United States.

London Rate on U.S. Break 60 Per Cent

By International News Service.

London, May 11.

INQUIRIES have been received in the insurance market for rates covering the risk of a disturbance between the United States and Germany. Sixty per cent. was quoted against the the risk of cessation of diplomatic relations between the two countries within the next three months, and 50 per cent. against the risk of a declaration of war.

No rate has been quoted on the risk of participation by Sweden in the war.

ITALIANS GAIN STEADILY IN TRENTINO

Rome, May 11.—Persistently and steadily General Cadorna is now winning his way to Trent.

His campaign is passing almost unnoticed outside Italy, attention being fixed on the fighting on the Isonzo line, where, however, operations are at present but small and unspectacular local affairs.

The outstanding fact in the Trentino fighting is that the Italian army has advanced eighteen miles from the existing Austro-Italian frontier, which is thirty-four miles from Trent.

General Cadorna's outposts are on the outskirts of Rovereto. East of the Adige valley his troops have seized the Zugna mountains as well as sixteen miles of Austrian roads running from the Pugasso plateau to Rovereto.

West of the valley the railroad from Reverto to Riva, on Lake Garda, is also in Italian hands. From Mori ridge to Loppio lake the Italians are on the northern side of the railroad.

While General Cadorna is thus pushing up the Adige valley to Trent, the infantry operations on the Isonzo front are at a standstill. Desultory artillery fire is maintained, sapping and mining work proceeds actively and the foot soldiers are kept in trim by eight hombing attacks. Experts who have recently visited the Isonzo front, declare the Italians could enter Gorizia any time they chose, but would be exposed to the fire of the Austrian batteries which still command the town.

CURED HIMSELF OF DRINKING

Los Angeles Man Gives Out a Simple Home Recipe That Banished His Desire for Liquor.

Mr. Carl Smith, living at 615½ S. Grand Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif., cured himself of the liquor habit with a simple home recipe. In a recent statement Mr. Smith said: "I took two high priced treatments for the liquor habit, both of which failed. Then I heard of the following simple recipe which I tried. It quickly banished my desire for liquor and greatly benefited my health. To 5 oz. of water add 20 grains of muriate of ammonia, a small box of Varies Compound and 10 grains of pepsin. Take a teaspoonful three times a day. It is perfectly harmless and as it has no taste, color or odor it can be given secretly in coffee, tea, milk or in food. Any druggist can put up this recipe at very little cost, and it is a wonderful remedy."

ROESSLE PREMIUM LAGER

Is Good Because It Is So Well Ripened

OUR Master Brewer gives much thought to the aging of Roessle Beer. There is no artificial means used to hasten its ripening. It lies in large storage vats of ample capacity—slowly and thoroughly aging—until our Master Brewer declares it has reached the highest degree of mellowness.

Roessle Beer is well named "THE MASTER BREWER'S MASTER BREW." That the public realizes its superior qualities is shown by its tremendous sales.

When you order beer for the home, ask for ROESSLE. Your dealer has it or will get it for you. You will find it pays to say, "SEND ME ROESSLE."

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young. Don't worry and don't worry over your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow skin, dull eyes, rings under your eyes—compelling you to look in your face—dull eyes without sparkle.

Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent. of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Olive, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, to act on the liver and bowels which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective.

They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. Price, 10c. and 25c per box. All druggists.

WIFE IN TEARS AS HER LETTERS TO SON ARE READ TO CARPENTER

is there to bother him in ist letter.' Nothing but love and affection is contained in it, and you showed extreme cruelty in not allowing the box to see it."

"MUDDIE LOVES YOU."

The second letter was dated November 28, 1915, and read:

My Darling Boy—I wrote you some time ago and am so worried because you have not answered. You know how much Muddie loves you, and, dear, it is so hard not to have my little boy with me or even to hear from him.

But, darling, I will not be much longer now before we will be together again. I shall wait anxiously for a letter from you. Do write me as soon as you get this. I long to know how you are feeling and I long to see your precious little face. I miss you so, dear, and you are never out of my thoughts.

"Be careful of yourself and try to keep well.

"Good-by, darling, for a little while, and remember your Muddie loves you more than anything in the world.

(Signed) "MOTHER."

After this letter had been read, General Streeter again condemned Carpenter for what he called the latter's brutality, and for several minutes, while women spectators sobbed in sympathy with Mrs. Carpenter, the attorney poured a flood of execration upon the head of the witness.

Mrs. Carpenter, frail appearing, sits in state the love-stricken assistant her counsel. Occasionally she smiles, as when her counsel relates incidents of their married life. Her devoted father occupies the same seat every day, in the first row of the spectators, and at each session, he and his daughter stroll about the streets of the city.

ASK ABOUT DICTOGRAPH.

Considerable interest was caused yesterday by testimony relative to a dictograph being installed in one of the rooms of the Copley-Plaza, and to the placing of a detective in the next room to Mrs. Carpenter at the hotel.

Mr. Streeter's questioning was as follows:

Q.—The day that you left your wife at the Copley-Plaza and went to your home in Wolfboro, did you have a dictograph placed in your wife's room? A.—No I did not.

Q.—Was there a dictograph placed in the rooms by any one under your orders? A.—No, there was not.

Q.—Was there a detective hired to occupy your rooms, next to your wife's, on the day you left, or the day after? A.—I made no such arrangements.

Q.—Well, did anyone make such arrangements? A.—I believe Mr. Smart, one of my counsel, arranged for that.

Q.—He was placed there to spy on your wife in order that you might get something on your wife, wasn't he? A.—Possibly.

WIFE WAS SICK, TOO.

Q.—He was placed there so that you could find something damaging against her so that you could have that evidence to get the boy away from her, isn't that so? A.—Why, if I found that she was an unworthy mother, yes?

Q.—You are sure there was no dictograph installed in your wife's room? A.—Yes.

Q.—Your wife was sick when you left the hotel and when you placed the detective in the next room or had Mr. Smart put him there for you? A.—She was in bed I know.

Q.—She was sick, wasn't she. A.—Well, I suppose she must have been.

The detective's name was Rogers. Carpenter testified, but he did not know how long he was employed or how much he was paid. At this point General Streeter asked that all check books, bank books, check stubs, correspondence and other material belonging to Mr. Carpenter, that had any relation to money paid out on the case, or his wife's expenses, be turned over to the defence for examination.

This was done by Mr. Carpenter's lawyers. A lengthy discussion arose, however, when Attorney Streeter asked for papers pertaining to money paid to the detective by Mr. Smart, one of Carpenter's attorneys.

TO "SPY" OR TO "OBSERVE."

Attorney Nathaniel Martin, senior counsel for Carpenter, objected strenuously that such papers were considered strictly private matters. After much debate, Judge Rivel announced that he would give his decision on that particular point of law later, and the questioning proceeded.

It was there that Attorney Streeter commenced his vigorous cross-questioning into the spying by Carpenter and detectives.

The witness persisted in calling detectives "investigators," and when the word "spy" was used, he corrected it by saying "observe." Considerable amusement was caused by an attempt to define the difference between "detective" and "investigator," and a person, who "spied," and one who "observed."

On this point Mr. Streeter questioned him as follows:

Q.—You sent your wife down to Magnolia, among those six or seven hundred guests who were people of refinement, wealth and position, an unattached woman didn't you? A.—She wanted to go there, and she wouldn't go to Wolfboro. She preferred the seashore.

WHY HE WENT TO MAGNOLIA.

Anyway, she went there, didn't she? The cottage was picked out for her, and a room engaged. Yet you sent her there, surrounded her with a lot of detectives, and spied on her? A.—I wouldn't say just that.

Q.—You pretended to love your boy didn't you? A.—I did love him, and do now, of course.

Q.—What did you go down there for? A.—I had board certain things from the observers, and thought I ought to go and see for myself.

Q.—You didn't go there to help your wife, did you? A.—I did not.

WENT TO "OBSERVE."

Q.—As a matter of fact you went there to continue the conspiracy you planned a long while ago to get something on her, enough to get her out of the family, and get the boy? Isn't that so? A.—No. I went there to observe what I suspected was true.

Q.—You went there to catch her, didn't you? Answer no, "yes" or "no." A.—Yes.

Q.—You say you went there to protect your boy. Is that the way you protect him, by surrounding his mother with a lot of detectives, and bringing a scandalous procedure about, for your boy to inherit. A.—As I have told you, I went there to observe.

Q.—You sent her there an unattached woman, with a boy. What did you think the social proprieties would be, going into a colony of such people, and you not with her. You cast her off, she was a discarded woman, over there. What do you think that was fair to the girl. A.—I didn't put her there.

Q.—Well, your counsel, acting for you, put her there. Was it fair? A.—Yes, it was fair.

"ADMONISHED HER FOR YEARS."

Q.—Now you have been about some. You know when a woman comes into such society, unattached, unaccompanied, and with a child, people immediately ask, "Where is her husband?" A.—Yes, it they are curious.

Q.—Well, isn't the social world curious on that subject? A.—Well, it's only natural for them to ask questions.

Q.—Why didn't you go there to admonish her if you knew these things to be true? A.—I had admonished her for years. I was sick and tired of it, that's why.

Q.—If you really believed the charges you make against Mr. Depew on the 6th and 7th of August, implicating your wife, why was it, after he left Magnolia on the 8th of that month, that on the 20th of the month, you invited her to come to Wolfboro? A.—I didn't know that the charges were false.

HADN'T ENOUGH EVIDENCE.

Q.—Well, if the charges were true, and you had committed improprieties prior to the day Mr. Depew left, would you have invited her to Wolfboro? A.—No.

Q.—Then you felt that the charges against Mr. Depew were not true? A.—I am not sure about the dates, I was satisfied, however, and disgusted.

Q.—Well, if you were satisfied about the 6th and 7th, relative to the alleged improprieties, why didn't you take the boy away with you then? A.—Well, I had to find out how the boy was, where he was and how he was living.

Q.—Now answer me if you believed those charges to be true, and the evidence enough, you would have taken him? A.—I didn't think I had sufficient evidence at that time, no, sir.

GENTLE RUBBING ALWAYS HELPS VARICOSE VEINS

Says Swollen Veins Are Dangerous and Oftimes Burst, Which Causes Much Suffering.

Rubbing the swollen veins nightly for about two minutes with a gentle upward stroke brings benefit to sufferers and is mighty good advice, says an authority.

After the rubbing, which should always be toward the heart, because the blood in the veins flows that way, apply Absorbine Emerald Oil (full strength) with brush or hand.

Try this simple home treatment for a few days and improvement will be noticed, then continue until veins are reduced to normal. It is very concentrated and penetrating and can be obtained at any modern drug store. It is so powerful that it also reduces Goitre and Wens. All good druggists have Emerald Oil in the original bottle and the demand is astonishing.—Advertisement.

Try a Ranch Vacation This Summer

Why not spend your vacation this Summer on a Western Ranch? Take the wife and kiddies along—you'll all thrive on it. The air is healthful and invigorating—the scenery is great—and there's plenty of both.

This is exactly the kind of an outing that a man needs, who has been confined to an office—it is a complete change.

What could do you more good than to ride over the sun-flooded trails in the hills, row on silvery lakes, fish in sandy brooks, stamp down winding paths among the trees, "loaf" in soft valleys of green, stroll in the moonlight, eat of "the fat of the land" and sleep like a baby? Such a vacation pays tremendous health dividends. There are scores of them set out along the BURLINGTON—in the Big Horns, the Buffalo Bill country, and in the Black Hills, where good, big-hearted ranch people have made arrangements to provide for Summer vacationists.

The trip itself is one of real pleasure and well worth while. I will be glad to send you a list of ranches, telling you how reasonable they are and give you other points in connection with them. Just drop me a postal and I will suggest a plan that you will like.

E. GERRY BROWN OPPOSES NEW LOAN LAW

To the Editor of the AMERICAN:

It is not pleasant for me to disagree with the AMERICAN in its conclusions on the proposed legislation on the Small Loans Act. The AMERICAN originated the legislation which created the office of Supervisor of Loan Agencies.

The Committee on Banks and Banking (House Doc. 2084, year 1911) said: "Money hunger cannot be satisfied by pure loan laws, which amounted to prohibition, any more than hunger could be gratified with pure food laws which amount to prohibition; pure loan laws will be beneficial when they are practical; the operation of loan agencies under conditions approaching justice will do more to minimize the evils incident to the loan business than a great many laws based on suppression."

It said further that, 'with conflicting evidence, it was unable to determine whether an original so-called 'usurious charge' should be allowed or entirely prohibited; and, if allowed, whether it should be limited to actual cash disbursements for appraisal of goods and recording fees or not."

It said that the statute prescribing conditions and legal relations were successively evaded, and they reported a law, which was enacted, giving a supervisor power to determine these questions.

Three years went on under this law without any complaints from borrowers that remained unadjusted. As supervisor I was removed because it was alleged my allowances were too liberal; another supervisor followed and his honest judgement made the allowances more liberal.

Now comes the proposed legislation to place an absolute limit on what a lender may charge—a usury law for loans under $100—and the return which the lender may receive is limited absolutely to 2 per cent. a month.

The injustice is, first, to the lender, who cannot loan money without security at that rate; and, second, the injustice is to the borrower, who will inevitably be driven to borrow money under conditions from which they were rescued by supervision which gave only justice to the lender and the borrower—to the lender a right to do business under a fair profit, and to the borrower a rate of expense as low as could be secured.

The borrower pays now the highest possible rates in States that have impractical loan laws like the one which it is now proposed to enact for Massachusetts.

I predict that the practical working of such a law, if it is permitted to become a law, will cover with confusion those now who so urgently urge its passage.

Aren't you about ready to stop "cigarette-shopping"?

You've tried out more different brands of cigarettes than you can remember. It's discouraging. And expensive.

Naturally, you'd stop this "shopping" around—quick—if you could find a cigarette that never grew tiresome.

Fatima is such a cigarette.

Men don't simply get Fatimas—they adopt them.

Because they find that Fatimas never grow tiresome.

Fatimas are a SENSIBLE cigarette inasmuch as they are always cool and comfortable to the throat and tongue. And they allow you to smoke as you like to smoke—without leaving a trace of "mean" feeling afterward.

Is it any wonder men adopt Fatimas and STICK to Fatimas for their steady smoke?

Surely—you should at least TRY Fatimas.

cigarettes alone, and he confessed that he had not. He said he met some wealthy men on the train and one of them passed him a gold cigarette case full of cigarettes. He said he took one and later another, and he told me:

"It's hard to refuse a cigarette out of a gold case."

"On one occasion, Mr. Wilson asked permission to take a kiss; and I felt that we were all for each other, so I allowed him one and then another.

"It is true that I went to the 'movies' with other men, but I always told him.

"Whenever he called we poured tea. He said he liked tea, that he had acquired the taste at Oxford.

"When he came to call on me he and I would sit on a couch and hold hands, and he would occasionally embrace me.

"He would talk to me of his ambitions, and he always spoke of things we would do together.

"On May 1 was at home and the woman I was living with was sick and lying on the couch, and I was wearing a kimono and heard a ring at the door. I answered, and it was Mr. Wilson.

"I apologized for my appearance, and he asked if he could come in, and I said he could, but that he would have to excuse my dress. He said: 'Oh, you look very sweet.'

"It was my first love affair, and he was so nice to me. I had explicit confidence in everything he told me, because of his calling. I knew all he told me was good and right. He kept repeating his love for me, and said we were intended for each other, and I was honored in the matrimonial line. I accepted him as my future husband.

BECAME HYSTERICAL.

"Once he had been away and returned, and I was so overjoyed and enraptured over the fact that he could come and see me again that I became hysterical. He stayed two nights before going to York Beach.

"He called on me one afternoon at 3:30. He had been so ardent that I had a premonition something was going to happen that day, and before his arrival I answered the telephone and he said:

"He came to the house and he was awfully profuse in his love making.

"He kissed me on my lips, and he kissed me all over my face.

"I was actually astounded at the way he made love to me.

"He held me in his arms and whispered: 'You'll be my little wife, won't you?'

"Then he sat down; then he stood up and hugged me again.

FOUND LOVE DELIGHTFUL.

"Oh, it was so fine, it was so good, it was so delightful to think that he loved me.

"It was then that the ratification of our love took place."

An attempt to introduce letters which passed between her and her parents was blocked by an exception. The letters told the story, kept from childhood, in which she had recorded the incidents to which she testified.

Miss Johnson's lawyer, Ralph H. Willard of this city, said in his address to the jury, that he would show that, after Rector Wilson had proposed marriage to Miss Johnson, he called on her while she was visiting in Boston, and told her that, while he had great love for her, he intended to take a vow of celibacy.

READ OF ENGAGEMENT.

The next thing Miss Johnson knew, according to the lawyer's statement, was when she read an announcement of his engagement to another young woman.

The clergyman's marriage to Miss Louise Clark, a Manhattan and Burlington, Vt., heiress, was set for October 26, last. A week before the bridal date an announcement was sent out that the marriage was postponed because of a threatened suit against Rector Wilson by Miss Johnson. The suit was entered and is the one on trial now.

Attorney Willard told the jury that Miss Johnson, a pupil at the University of Vermont, at Burlington in September, 1912, met Mr. Wilson, then a curate in Burlington. He said that Mr. Wilson proposed to Miss Johnson, but she demurred, saying she would accept him if he was the right man. Later, the lawyer said, she came to love him.

The curate became a rector and came to Arlington to preach. While there, the lawyer for Miss Johnson said, Miss Johnson and her mother came to Boston, lodging on Hemenway street. Mr. Wilson, the attorney continued, came to call on Miss Johnson.

"When Mr. Wilson and Miss Johnson were alone," Attorney Willard said, "they talked the situation over. Like a bolt out of a clear sky Mr. Wilson got down on his bended knees, and Miss Johnson what a great love he had for her, but said that he had a higher call from above—from God—that he intended to take the vow of celibacy.

"She left him, still hoping that she would be able to deter him from the vow he said he intended to take. She sincerely loved him. She was doomed to disappointment. She received a newspaper showing he had no intention of keeping his vow of celibacy, but, on the contrary, announcing his engagement to another young woman."

Miss Johnson, her father and mother and another witness were sworn. Miss Johnson took the stand, said she was educated in private schools, entered the University of Vermont in Burlington in September, 1913, and lodged at the student boarding house kept by Mrs. W. G. Lane, daughter of the late Governor U. A. Woodbury of Vermont.

In answer to questions by her lawyer, Miss Johnson related her meeting Mr. Wilson, as follows:

"I met Mr. Wilson at a New Year's ball at Fort Ethan Allen, a very elaborate affair. Mrs. Lane chaperoned us. Mr. Wilson was very attentive. My dance program shows he danced considerably with me that night."

"WHISPERED ENDEARMENT."

A dance program was introduced with initials "C. C. W." on it—Miss Johnson said he danced nine or ten times with her, sat with her at supper and on the ride home. She went on:

"As the wagon backed up to the sidewalk when we were home he took me right up in his arms and lifted me out. I was very much surprised. As he did so he whispered some endearing term in my ear and asked me if he could call.

"I said he might. I saw him the next day at a dinner given by Governor Woodbury. I did not see him for four days. He telephoned to know if he could call. I kept putting him off. Finally a woman in the house said: 'Why don't you let that poor fellow come to dinner?' I finally invited him to come to dinner, and he came.

"He called every day for the next two weeks. I would go to church service to hear him. He was then assistant rector at St. Paul's Cathedral. I was baptized in that church.

"Later I was at an informal dance at Fort Ethan Allen with Mr. Wilson, Mrs. Lane and my roommate. Mr. Wilson was with me all the time."

A second dance program, with initials "C. W." on it, was introduced.

Miss Johnson said she wrote home about Mr. Wilson and became more interested. She added:

"One evening we had a long conversation at my home. It was that night that he declared his love for me. That was February 6, 1915. When he told me that he loved me I wanted him to be sure. He said we were made for each other. I told my mother, because I wanted to do just what was right"

GRANDMOTHER KNEW

There Was Nothing So Good for Congestion and Colds as Mustard

But the old-fashioned mustard plaster burned and blistered while it acted. You can get the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister.

MUSTEROLE does it. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It is scientifically prepared, so that it works wonders, and yet does not blister like the plaster.

Just massage MUSTEROLE in with the finger-tips gently. See how quickly it brings relief—how speedily the pain disappears.

And there is nothing like MUSTEROLE for Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Tonsilitis, Croup, Stiff Neck, Asthma, Neuralgia, Headache, Congestion, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Pains and Aches of Back or Joints, Sprains, Sore Muscles, Bruises, Chilblains, Frosted Feet, Colds of the Chest—it often prevents Pneumonia.

LITTLE PIMPLES ON FACE, NECK

And Hands. Became Scaly and Skin Was Sore. Ashamed To Go Out. Lasted Three Months.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"One night before retiring I was troubled with an itching and in the morning I found that my face was all broken out with little pimples, and then they came on my neck and hands. The pimples became scaly and my skin was so sore that I had to bathe it with cold water to keep the pain down, and I scratched and my face became crusted. I was so red and sore I was ashamed to go outdoors at all. It lasted about three months.

"I tried —— and —— to no purpose. A friend told me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I did, and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and one-half a box of Cuticura Ointment I regained my complexion, and was completely healed." DON'T SQUEEZE BLACKHEADS—DISSOLVE THEM

Squeezing and pinching but blackheads multiply, the pores large and cause irritation—then, too, after they have become hard you cannot get all of them out. Blackheads are caused by accumulations of dust and dirt and secretions from the skin and there is only one safe and sure way and one that never fails to get rid of them —a simple way, too—that is to dissolve them. Just get from any drug store about 1/4 ounce of powdered peroxin—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—wash off and you'll be surprised to see that every blackhead has disappeared, and the skin will be left soft and the pores in their natural condition—anyone troubled with these unsightly blemishes should try this simple method.—Advertisement.

LOVE CAUSE OF NEWTON MAN'S STAY IN JAIL

It began some time ago, when Michael Marino of West Newton met and became infatuated with pretty, dark-eyed, eighteen-year-old Ethel Goebel of Waltham.

The affair was far from ideal, however, inasmuch as Michael, who was thirty, had a wife and three children, and Ethel's mother had an ingrained distaste for married suitors.

About two months ago Mrs. Goebel haled her daughter into the Waltham Court as a stubborn child. The case was continued, and the girl dropped out of sight. Also Marino went away.

After a time Marino returned to his family and accustomed haunts, and a short time later the girl reappeared. She was again taken into court and placed on probation.

Two day's ago one of Michael's children was playing with his traveling bag in the Marino domicile. The child discovered a "pretty picture."

The mother was asked to "see the pretty picture." Mrs. Marino failed to find it pretty. It pictured her lord and master standing in a most affectionate position with a good looking young woman. Mrs. Marino made action regarding the picture, which, according to the police, her lord and master cut short by a blow.

Marino then left the house, but his troubles were still following him. Mrs. Marino went to court and swore out a warrant for her husband's arrest. Marino was known to be in Waltham, and Patrolman Peter Tracey was notified to be on the lookout for him.

Michael went to Waltham, and while strolling along, denouncing Fate and her ramifications, he suddenly beheld his better half and the handsome Miss Tracey. Rushing up to Tracey, Marino pointed to Bennato and cried that the latter had a gun and should be arrested. He insisted that the police man call the patrol wagon, and Tracey complied with his request. Then he took Marino to the police station, from whence he was transported to Newton. Today Marino was given a suspended sentence of two months in the House of Correction.

19-Year-Old Girl Reported Missing in Hinsdale, N.H.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 11.—Nineteen-year-old Gladys Stearns is mysteriously absent from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis D. Stearns. For lack of any definite clew it was thought she might have drowned herself in the Connecticut River, one-quarter of a mile from here. But grappling and diving for her body have been fruitless.

The girl came into the village last Friday on errands for her mother. She did not return home. Inquiry showed that she had taken neither train nor trolley out of town, so far as known.

The river is swollen by Spring floods. The current is fast and the river bottom is hard and smooth, offering little hold on any submerged object. A body would probably be carried far down-stream.

NORMAN PRINCE AGAIN HONORED BY FRANCE

Norman Prince, Harvard graduate, who is serving as a military aviator in France, has received an official citation from the French government, according to information received at the home of his uncle, Dr. Morton Prince of Boston.

The citation is believed to have been made for two articles by young Prince on military aviation, published in the United States, whose influence was said to be valuable to the cause of the Entente allies.

Prince is serving in the same aerial squadron as Elliot Cowdin, the New Yorker who was recently decorated for bravery. Prince has been awarded "La Croix de Guerre," and has been twice mentioned in the despatches. Three such mentions carry with them the "Medaille Militaire," which corresponds to the English Victoria Cross.

SAYS BENEFITED HIS INDIGESTION

Boston Machinist Relates How Plant Juice Cured His Stomach Trouble.

The rich man's aim in life, in many cases, is to obtain an appetite; the poor man's aim is to satisfy the one he already possesses. Both are to be pitied if they do not see the realization of their desires. Unfortunately stomach trouble, with its accompanying symptoms—indigestion and dyspepsia—is not confined to one class. Too little food is just as likely to cause indigestion as too much.

Many aids to digestion have resulted from this crying need for them. The most meritorious and dependable of these remedies yet found is the new herbal stomach remedy, Plant Juice, which is rapidly becoming a household word from coast to coast. It gives the most beneficial results of any preparation ever placed on the market, for it is so prepared from medicinal roots, herbs, barks and berries that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

More and more local people are coming to realize the truth of this assertion, and daily testimonials are received, stating in no uncertain terms what Plant Juice has accomplished. Recently, the following was received from Mr. William Kennedy, who lives at No. 3542 Washington street, and is a trusted employe of one of the largest firms in this city, having many friends here. He says:

"For eight years I had suffered with indigestion and dyspepsia. I could not digest my food and it would ferment in my stomach and cause gas to form there. I went to the hospital and was operated on, but this did not seem to relieve me. For nine months I was forced to stay at home and was in constant misery. I had headaches, was dizzy, my liver and kidneys were affected and I had dreadful pains across my back and in my sides. I could not sleep at night and for months lived on crackers and milk. I was in such a nervous state that the least noise would startle me. I read in the papers how Plant Juice was curing so many people so I got a bottle and started to take it. Since I have taken four bottles of Plant Juice I am able to go to my work every day and never felt better, all my aches and pains have left me, I sleep well and am able to eat all my meals and digest them. Plant Juice has been a godsend to me, as it has cured me and I cannot say enough in praise of it."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Drug Department of the Houghton & Dutton Store, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

MISS MIRIAM MASON A BRIDE

MRS. GEORGE LEE OPENS HOME FOR RECITAL

PHOTOGRAPH BY JAMIESON

MISS MIRIAM P. MASON.

She was married to Franklin H. Trumbull in the Episcopal Church in Ipswich today.

A large society contingent was present at the wedding today of Miss Miriam P. Mason of No. 5 Gloucester street to Franklin H. Trumbull, Harvard 1914 and captain of the varsity crew in 1913.

The wedding, which took place at the Episcopal Church in Ipswich, was attended also by a group of the groom's classmates and sister debutantes of Miss Mason, who came out in 1913.

Following the ceremony a reception took place at the residence of the bride's brother, Herbert W. Mason, in Ipswich, after which the couple left for a wedding trip.

The bride belongs to the fashionable Sewing Circle and the Vincent Club. Mr. Trumbull is a member of the Hasty Pudding, the Tuckey, the Institute of 1770, the A. D. and the Calumet clubs.

SHOOT SUSPECT AS NAVY SPY AT PORTSMOUTH

Portsmouth, N. H., May 11.—A man, believed to be a spy, was shot today by a navy yard guard while running from the quarters of the new submarine L-8.

The man refused to halt and, although wounded, leaped into the river. It is thought he was drowned.

According to navy yard authorities a sentry heard whistled signals just about daybreak and called the corporal of the guard. They investigated and found that a man on the Kittery shore was communicating with someone in the yard. On going to the west side of the Franklin ship house, where the submarine is under construction, they saw a man moving about among the condemned boats. He was commanded to halt, but began to run toward the end of the pier. Three times they ordered him to halt and then opened fire. The fugitive dropped to his knees, then struggled up and reaching the end of the pier dropped into the river. The river was later dragged for the body.

The L-8 is the only underwater craft now being built at a government yard. Details of its construction are being carefully guarded and outsiders are not allowed to visit the shiphouse.

DEDICATE SHAFT TO JEREMY GRIDLEY

A monument in the Granary Burying Ground to Jeremy Gridley, father of the Boston Bar and provincial grand master of the Masons of North America, was dedicated by Grand Master Melvin M. Johnson today.

The monument was erected by the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, and among the invited speakers were Governor McCall, President of the Senate Henry G. Wells, Speaker Channing H. Cox, Attorney-General Henry C. Attwill, Samuel J. Elder, Captain Peter H. Crowell and William J. Craig.

In his dedicatory address Grand Master Johnson said that Mr. Gridley was born in Boston, March 10, 1701, and was christened Jeremiah, although commonly known as Jeremy. He graduated from Harvard in 1725, becoming a school teacher. He married Abigail Lowle and had three children, all of whom survived him.

In 1731 Mr. Gridley founded the Weekly Rehearsal, one of the earliest of the Boston newspapers, and he was admitted to the bar about 1734. In 1742 Mr. Gridley was one of the counsel for the town of Boston and was a school visitor. He was made a Mason May 11, 1748, and on September 21 of that year he presented to the Lord Commissioners of the Treasury in London a memorial from the merchants and men of affairs in New England protesting against the unstable condition of the currency and exchange.

WIFE SAYS HUSBAND KNOCKED HER DOWN

Fred T. Dickenson is a sign painter, but his wife, Margaret, painted a vivid word picture of him to Judge McLaughlin in the Suffolk Divorce Court today, thus: "My husband was good to look at, but insanely jealous. He choked me. Once he punched me in the face, knocked me down, picked me up, put me to bed and kissed me. I forgave him."

Mrs. Dickenson seeks divorce on the ground of cruel and abusive treatment. Judge McLaughlin took the case under advisement.

ELOPING COUPLE IN DIVORCE COURT

The story of a shattered high school romance was told today by Abraham Levy at the trial of his divorce suit before Judge McLaughlin. He charges his wife, Evelyn D. Levy, with desertion. Levy testified that on May 15, 1911, they eloped and were married at Nashua. He was seventeen and she sixteen. Levy declared his wife never lived with him.

Prices which are usually asked for odds and ends of ribbons are marked in this sale on complete lines

For about ten years, we have held a Spring Sale of ribbons at this time, as housekeepers, school and college graduates, milliners, dressmakers and all who are deft of finger and fond of needle find this the ideal time for such a sale.

This sale itself is the direct result of three months of active work. The prices for complete assortments are what might be expected for season-end and marked-down remnants. As a matter of fact, there isn't a yard of undesirable ribbon in the sale—there is none which can be classified as "second," "irregular" "slightly irregular" or defective in any way. Many of the patterns are exclusive with us. Many have never been on sale here before.

Plus Trademarks from Quaker Oats Packages—See Below

This Made-to-Order Cooker

Here is a perfect Cooker which ought to last a lifetime. Its retail value is at least $2.50. But this week, in this city, we supply it at trifling cost.

This offer is most costly to us. It is one which we can't repeat. But every user of Quaker Oats in this city can this week get this Cooker. And every new user can get it. After that, it will cost a much higher price.

Our reason is this: We spend vast sums to make Quaker Oats the finest oat food that is possible.

We use in this brand just the big, plump grains. All the puny, starved oats are discarded. So we get but ten pounds of Quaker Oats from a bushel.

We do that to give you the utmost in flavor and aroma. In Quaker Oats the flakes are large and luscious. They have made this brand the favorite oat food the world over.

Keep that flavor intact. Cook these rich flakes in the way we provide. You will then have a luxury dish.

You will also make the oat flakes completely digestible. All their energy value will be available. All their brain food, their nerve food, their vim food will count.

Thousands of homes in this city this week are sending for this Quaker Cooker. And for years to come it will bring to them a doubly-delightful oat dish. We urge you to get it for your home, while the cost is but 75 cents.

Extra Large and Heavy
Cereal Capacity, 2½ Qts.
Retail Value, $2.50

Until Saturday Night—75c

This offer ends on Saturday night. But until then it is open to any home which has not this Cooker already.

Send us five trademarks—the pictures of the Quaker—cut from the fronts of five Quaker Oats packages, standard size, or from two of the large size.

Send with them only 75 cents, check or money order preferred, and we will send the Cooker by parcel post prepaid.

No requests will be honored unless mailed this week.

This is not offered as a bargain. It is offered to better your oat dish. But it is a bargain, and we hope you will accept it. Your grocer makes a feature of this Cooker this week, and has Quaker Oats on display. Please see him at once.

This Offer is Confined to Boston and Vicinity.

ARGUE CHANGE IN INSANITY BOARD

Former Congressman Charles G. Washburn of Worcester, appeared before the House ways and means committee today in favor of the bill to re-organize the present state board of insanity from a paid board of three members to a board of four unpaid and one paid member, the paid member to act as director.

The former Congressman favored the bill on the grounds that Massachusetts has always been able to find men and women of repute and ability who are willing to give part of their time to the state.

Representative George J. Wall opposed the bill. He told the committee that he wrote 10 letters to as many hospital superintendents and all of them but one opposed any change.

EX-COUNCILMAN TROY BURIED AT CONCORD

The funeral of Edward A. Troy of Charlestown, who was a member of the last Boston Common Council in 1908 under the old city charter, was held today at St. Mary's Church in Charlestown. Requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. James H. Phalan. The Rev. Maurice Flynn of St. Peter's Church, Roxbury, sat in the sanctuary. Burial was at Concord and was private.

HELD AS ROBBER OF WORCESTER MAN

Indianapolis, Ind., May 1.—Nick Moran was captured by the police today, after he had robbed N. W. Weagle and F. J. Downey, of Worcester, Mass., of $182. The police records show Moran was sentenced to Sing Sing in 1903 for the theft of $3,000 worth of jewelry at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York.

NEW YORK CHICAGO DETROIT PROVIDENCE

BREAK RECORDS IN PRODUCTION OF U. S. STEEL

By International News Service.

New York, May 11.—Business of the United States Steel Corporation continues to break all records. Unfilled orders on April 30, according to its latest statement, totaled 9,828,551 tons, a new high mark, and 498,559 tons in excess of the previous high, as of March 31. It also compares with 4,162,744 tons, a year ago.

The expansion in orders was slightly less than anticipated. The financial circles expected the increase would range between 550,000 and 750,000 tons. The expansion in March was 762,190 tons.

Owing to the sold-up condition of the mills' unfilled orders the current month may show a very small increase over April, according to steel interests, but a statement of 10,000,000 tons is confidently expected at the end of May.

April shipments are expected at about 51,000 tons daily, with new business approximately 20,000 tons daily in excess of shipments, indicating daily bookings of 71,000 tons, against some 80,000 tons daily in March. New bookings, however, are said to be above capacity.

Examine for Library Service.

An examination for Grade E of the Library service will be held Saturday morning, May 20, at 10 o'clock, on the special libraries floor, Central Library. This is the lowest grade examination and requires merely a grammar school education. It is for boys and girls.

O'Meara to Be Reappointed by Gov. M'Call

Police Commissioner Stephen O'Meara, whose term expires June 3, will be reappointed by Governor McCall, it was learned from an authentic source today.

The appointment will be for the five-year term. The salary is $6,000. Mr. O'Meara has been police commissioner since 1906.

Reports have been current that the police commissioner would retire with the expiration of his term next month, but it can be authoritatively stated that Mr. O'Meara has given the Governor's office no intimation that he desired to return to private life.

Motor Notes.

By J. C. KERRISON.

R. H. Nettleton of the Chandler Motor Car Company of New England, left Boston yesterday for a visit to the Chandler plant at Cleveland. Mr. Nettleton goes to do his utmost towards increasing the allotment of Chandler cars and to hurry deliveries already promised.

J. S. Hathaway, manager of the White Company, is visiting the White factory in Cleveland, Ohio.

This is May Day Week among the New England Studebaker dealers, a period during which the great majority of Studebaker discounters in this territory will endeavor to instill into the atmosphere of their surroundings a touch of the joyful season of May. The salesrooms of the various dealers have been decorated in gala attire by means of mural decorations, lighting schemes, window displays and the like, and the efforts in this respect are attracting widespread attention.

Many of the dealers are staging automobile shows of their own, others have arranged elaborate window displays; in short, the entire New England organization is dressing up surroundings in honor of the opening of the Spring season.

The Donovan Motor Car Company, local distributors, are co-operating with the Boston branch with a view toward making the week a banner one, and judging from the number of sales which have already been consummated, there is little doubt but that they will accomplish their object.

Quite a delegation of Bostonians leave here tomorrow to attend the Metropolitan Cup contest at Sheepshead Bay Saturday afternoon. The local men anticipate witnessing a remarkable record struggle, and, according to reports from the training camp, they should not be disappointed.

QUERY MADE ON RESALE PRICE CONTROL

The Boston Chamber of Commerce is taking a referendum vote, members sending in their ballots by mail, on two propositions submitted by a special committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce in regard to "maintenance of resale prices."

This refers to the general principle that producers and manufacturers of identified articles, made and sold under competitive conditions, should have the right to maintain the prices at which jobbers and retailers may sell such articles to consumers.

Seven out of the ten members of the national chamber's special committee reported for legislation to permit maintenance of resale prices under certain restrictions. The three other members submitted a minority report for less sweeping legislation.

The two propositions, on which referendum votes are now being taken, are as follows:

1. There should be federal legislation permitting the maintenance of resale prices, under proper restrictions, on identified merchandise for voluntary purchase, made and sold under competitive conditions.

2. The Trade Commission Act should be amended so as to define the conditions under which price-cutting is an unfair method of competition and authorizing the Federal Trade Commission to prevent such price-cutting in interstate and foreign commerce.

FOUR UNHURT WHEN PINNED UNDER CAR

William Craig of High street, Dedham, and his three children narrowly escaped serious injury when their automobile backed over an embankment at Wait and Kempton streets, Parker Hill, it turned over as it shot down the decline, all four occupants being pinned underneath. All, however, escaped unhurt.

The children were Marie, fifteen; Evelyn, nine and Paul six.

House Passes Income Tax.

The House refused to accept any amendments to the income tax bill, except those which were necessary to perfect the operation of the act, and passed the measure to be engrossed by a rising vote of 97 to 29.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were strong in New York at noon. After the slight declining tendency in the first hour there was a change for the better. There was more business in war industrials in the second hour. They advanced the most as a class, but coppers and rails continued to be slow.

Gains at 12 o'clock included Beet Sugar ¾, American Sugar ¾, United Fruit 1⅝, Car and Foundry ¾, American Loco. ½, Baldwin 1¼, Crucible 1⅝, Industrial Alcohol 1¼, Distillers 1½, American Petroleum 2⅜, Texas Co. 2, Willys-Overland 2¼, Studebaker 3⅛, Maxwell ⅝, Goodrich 1¼, Westinghouse 1, American Can ⅝, U. S. Steel ⅝, American Smelting ⅝, Marine preferred 1, Railway Steel Springs 1⅜, Inspiration ⅝, Kennecott ⅝, Canadian Pacific 1¼, Northern Pacific 1, Atchison ½, Reading ⅝, Baltimore & Ohio ¾ and Union Pacific ¾. Anaconda was unchanged.

Among declines were Southern Pacific ⅛ and New York Central ⅛.

Gains in Boston included Gulf common 2¼, United Fruit 1¼, U. S. Steel ⅝, Calumet & Arizona ⅝, Butte & Superior 1½ and American Zinc 1⅛.

Among declines were Mohawk ¼, Old Dominion ½, Ahmeek 2 and United shoe ¼.

While the New York list was somewhat irregular at the start most issues showed small gains, and at the end of half an hour there had been no change of consequence, although the list was on a little lower level. Sugars were strong and motors ruled higher. There were no such buoyant issues as coppers. Railroads were firm with Reading, Rock Island and Union Pacific the most in demand. Union Pacific's earnings for the current fiscal year are about 10 a share upon common. Little hope of an extra dividend was shown. United Fruit was a strong specialty. The German note concerning the sinking of the Sussex had a reassuring effect upon the market. Mexican reports were regarded as indefinite. Nothing happened over night to provide an incentive for new commitments. Traders continued to wait. The volume of morning business was small. The market was rather narrow. Price changes averaged little throughout the morning and were in most instances without significance. How much there is behind talk of peace in Europe was generally disclosed. Traders found little basis for rumors. Although so intangible, they had some influence upon speculation in war order issues. It is halting at present.

The tone of the Boston market was firm at the start, but it was dull and without any feature of interest aside from United Fruit, which was strong and fairly active. Mining shares were slothful and most specialties were neglected.

Lack demand for copper metal is reported. It is said that second-hands are willing to make concessions. In some quarters it is believed that prices are at the zenith now. In London spot copper and futures advanced £1, with electrolytic unchanged. Tin quotations were 10s. lower. Lead and spelter quotations were unchanged.

5,000 IRONWORKERS IN NEW YORK QUIT

New York, May 11.—Five thousand iron workers went on strike in New York city today. The men demand higher wages, shorter hours and recognition of their union. The strike is expected to spread. Another firm gave in to the garment workers today and 136 strikers went back to work.

INVESTIGATION OF ROCK ISLAND IS DOOMED

By International News Service.

Washington, May 11.—Efforts to force a congressional investigation of the financial affairs of the Rock Island Railroad are doomed to defeat, House leaders declared today. They asserted that the pressure of legislative business now before the House would not permit consideration of the resolution of Representative Oglesby of New York, charging that plans are afoot to freeze out minority stockholders in the road and authorizing an investigation by a House committee. Minority stockholders of the road sought in vain to secure from the Rules Committee a promise that the Oglesby resolution would be taken up at once, but the committee would give no assurance as to action on the measure.

The First Marriage in New England took place May 12, 1621, when Mistress Susannah White, widow of William White, was married to Edward Winslow. The wedding feast then would not be considered elaborate now. The people of New England knew the value of good, substantial foods. They were great bread eaters. Everybody should because it contains more strength-giving elements than meats and other heavy foods and is more easily digestible.

Give the children plenty of pure bread with milk, with jam or syrup. It will help them become men and women with rugged constitutions. Let the grown-ups eat it, too, for bread is the great energizer that increases the vitality necessary for the day's work. It is the most economical food you can provide.

The best bread—the lightest bread—is that which good bakers leaven with

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

Indians After Another Goose Egg George in Gap

By HERMAN NICKERSON.

TROUBLE arrived in the form of the Cleveland club, and it has given an exhibition of hitting that was enough to win any ball game, let alone the help they received from the Champions. The work of the Carrigan crew has not been up to the standard for some days and the fans are waiting for the boys to get together. They appear to lack spirit and certainly have not had their hands up. These are dangerous things for any team, least of all a champion.

The league has been strengthened since the close of last season and while there seems to be no reason why the World's Champions shouldn't repeat with the strength in their pitching staff either, they have not played the game and do not take advantage of opportunities nor do they play the aggressive game that marked their work of last season. Something appears to be on their minds and it shows in their work.

Failing to grasp the chance has been very prominent lately. The base running of the club is not worthy of a team in the second division. Errors are a part of the game but they are overlooked but it is a different matter when men pass up runs by not keeping their heads up. Runs are hard to get and when the chance comes everyone should be on the alert to make every point count otherwise there will be no flag raising at Fenway Park.

HITTING AND PITCHING BAD

The team is not hitting and the pitchers that should come through have been disappointing. Ruth was hit hard and often and was possible kept in for the swing at the ball that would have counted had it been possible to get a fly ball past Speaker. This player has grown in the estimation of the Boston public since the fans have seen him in a rival uniform. The viewpoint is different. While in the past they all were loud in their praise of him as a defensive player and realized the great ground-covering ability he possessed, still he was with Boston and it grew to be second nature for the crowd to expect great things of him. Now he is pulling that kind of baseball against the home club and it hurts.

Five fielding chances was his work of yesterday. One of these was a fly markable running catch of a fly ball sent out to deep right centre by Ruth with two men on and two out. Tris played the batter and was in good position to start upon his run. Still it is doubtful if any other fielder would have got under the ball but Tris. This was a wet blanket to the Champions' chances.

At bat he got two hits, one rather scratchy, but still a hit. Was passed once, so that in three times at bat, according to the box score, he scored three runs. Some work for the Cleveland club.

NO HITS FOR WALKER.

Walker, the centrefielder of the Champs, was up four times and didn't connect with a safe blow. Twice Tris caught his fly balls, the others being hits to the infield. There were no fielding chances to record for him.

It is safe to look as if Tris and the slow work of the home club would be enough to pay anyone with the chances for a climb at this time with Chicago coming on the heels of the Indians. Gandil at first is added strength to the club and O'Neil has been hitting and catching well.

Morton pitched a good game of ball and but for Howard's muff of a fly ball too easy, the Indians played a perfect game. Wambsganss is a lively boy and he deserves a great deal of credit for the work he is doing for the reason that he is handicapped by having a very bad eye. If he can play with one eye the way he has been going look out for this youngster when he gets the use of both.

The fourth game was won one, so today's contest is the rubber, with Friday the last of the series, then Chicago. Mays is likely to be the choice for today for Foster, while Cleveland will probably use Coumbe, the left-hander.

Mitchell Et Al. to Coach from the Bench

The professional baseball coaches at Harvard, Yale and Princeton are to be allowed the liberty of the players' bench this Spring, a privilege which was taken away from them two seasons ago.

Dean Briggs of Harvard recently hinted that if such a prayer came before the athletic committee this year it would meet with favor. Nash of the Crimson, Captain Law of Princeton and Captain Vaughan of Yale held a conference shortly afterwards and they asked collectively that the coach be allowed to handle his men from the bench.

A wave of reform passed through the baseball veins of the "Big Three" during the season of 1914 with the result that the paid coaches were forced to witness the players on their team, ungainful, perform from the stands. Last Winter, the captains of the three colleges signed a petition asking that the rule be rescinded and the coaches restored to their former privileges, but without avail.

In this instance they met with better success, and Coaches Fred Mitchell of Harvard, "Roaring" Bill Clarke of Princeton and Billy Lauder of Yale, all old National Leaguers, will be conniving for all they are worth to set their nine on the winning side of each series.

LAST NIGHT IN THE RING.

Manchester, N. H., May 11.—Al Shubert, the New Bedford lightweight, refused to weigh in for his contest with Frankie Brown, of Lowell, at the Gem Theatre tonight and sent Joe Mullaney, manager of South Boston, and Young Chaney would eight rounds to a draw. Chief of Police Healy states that Shubert will never be allowed to show in Manchester.

New York, May 11.—Young Fulton, after passing a sure loser, slipped over a knockout in the third round and stopped Tony Moriewan at the Pioneer S. C.

Providence, May 11.—Pal Moore, the Memphis bantamweight, won a close decision over Jerry Martin, of this city, at the Rhode Island A. C.

WOODLAND CLUB TO ARGUE FOR OUIMET

The executive committee of the United States Golf Association has recognized the right of the Woodland Club to know why Francis Ouimet and J. J. Sullivan, Jr., and Paul Tewksbury are barred from amateur competition. The executive committee has arranged for a hearing in New York Friday night on the cases of the three golfers. It will be more of a discussion, as the golfers in question are not to be there.

President Folsom and Secretary Fretsch of the Woodland Club and three other members of the club are going well prepared to thresh the matter out. There are certain features which have not been brought to light publicly and which presumably will be set forth at the meeting in New York.

THE champion Harvard class crew—the sophomores—has lost Johnny Franklin, one of its best oars. Franklin, while he has sufficient credits to be ranked with his class, had not at midyears, so according to the rules at Yale, would be ineligible to row. Harvard, instead of following its own regulations, yielded to those in force at Yale and Franklin has been dropped from the boat.

RUDOLPH AGAINST CUBS

Evers Thinks Reformed Baseball Has Hurt Effectiveness; New Chicago Park Bothersome.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 11.—Johnny Evers, former Cub star and manager and now captain of the Braves, today took a verbal wallop at reformed baseball that contained both a kick and a punch.

The Trojan declared that the officers, as a result of their taming of the ball players, had robbed them of half of their effectiveness and that the threat to punish the men if they fought for games had handicapped John McGraw until he was but a small part of his old self.

"The players of today are afraid to display the fight that formerly was such an enjoyable feature of the game," said Evers.

"I can't take the interest in the game that I formerly did, and as a result I don't begin to cover the ground.

"I can't kick at an umpire's decisions; I can't battle with the players of the opposing teams; I can do nothing but accept meekly every bad decision that is made. I can cover five feet more of territory when I am sore at myself, at the umpires, at the players or the other teams than I can when I am at peace with the world. And my experience is that of every other aggressive ball player.

"The threat of punishment has thrown fear into the heart of McGraw and he is afraid to take the field and fight for games as he formerly did.

"The result is that the manager is handicapped and his team is not going anywhere near the pace that it would travel if they would let McGraw alone.

PLAYERS TAMED.

"They have tamed the players but have ruined the game."

The Braves are finding much fault with the new field in Chicago. The Cubs now play where the Federal League team played last season and there is a short fence in right. It is mighty, mighty short, and Evers and the other Boston players claim it is the greatest handicap they have encountered this season.

"An ordinary fly ball will clear it and you never know where you are," said Evers.

"We are having a difficult time in deciding on our pitcher for today's game as a result, because we must pick some fellow who can compel the batters to hit them on the ground.

HOME RUNS EASY.

"With a Tris Speaker on the slab and a left hand batter at the plate a home run is just as likely to be hit as is a fly ball which can be captured.

"Rudolph is handicapped for the reason that Schulz, Flack, Williams and Saier are all left hand hitters and men who hit the ball in the air. Any one of these fellows is apt to hit the ball over the fence upon any trip to the plate."

The kick of the Braves follows a home run by Williams that came near defeating them in the first contest of this season. That battle was a slugfest which the Braves finally won 11 to 10. They won because they staged a batting rally in their half of the ninth and received their runs on a homer by Wilhoit. His drive was inside the fence so Cobb can't be found with that. But with the count 11 to 8 in their favor and the inning the last half of the ninth, Williams hit one across the short fence with one on, and the Boston outfielders would have captured it had the ball been hit in almost any other field.

Despite the fact that the Chicago batters will hit over the fence, it's likely that Rudolph will pitch today and that he will be opposed by Claude Hendrix.

INDIANS PROTEST THEIR ONLY DEFEAT

Newark, May 11.—James R. Price, president of the Newark baseball club, has forwarded a protest to Edward Grant Barrow, the president of the league, in reference to the game which Newark lost to Rochester last Thursday by the score of 16 to 0.

It is claimed that Brown, the twirler used by the Hustlers, is Joseph Le Bate, who played with the Durham club, in the North Carolina League, last season, and who is now under suspension. If the protest is upheld, Newark's record will be a clear one of ten straight victories.

AL LIPPE STABLE BUSY.

New York, May 11.—Jimmy Anderson, the Indianapolis lightweight, meets Bobbie Moore at the Stadium A. C. tonight. "Dutch" Brandt and Frankie Brown clash on the same card.

SIDELIGHTS

BY HERMAN NICKERSON

RAIN threatened and the crowd was small.

* * *

THE crew and baseball squads from Boston College High were the guests of President Lannin.

* * *

THE Cleveland club has played four Sunday games and won all of them, scoring thirty-five runs and played to 76,000 persons.

* * *

WHEN Thomas hesitated on Hooper's hit in the third he beat that player out of a hit in the records, for he turned it into a force play.

* * *

FROM the press gallery it looked as if Owens had given Gardner and Barry a pretty raw deal on strikes in the seventh. He is forgiven for reversing the decision of Connolly at third on Roth in the third.

* * *

M'NALLY ran for Thomas in the seventh when Tris made that wonderful catch of Ruth's long drive to deep right centre. This played the batter and made a difficult catch for any other fielder look easy.

* * *

JANVRIN got two clean blows, as did Thomas. Janvrin made two great plays, as well as a catch of a fly ball sent up by Morton, which Janvrin grabbed and fell, rolling and holding the ball. This came after he had shot the ball across the diamond, getting O'Neill.

* * *

O'NEILL is some hitting catcher. He registered two two-baggers.

* * *

LEWIS gave Speaker a chance to score by kicking the hit sent out to him by Roth.

* * *

WALKER hit the ball far and high twice for Tris to gather in. Such is fate.

* * *

HENRIKSEN pinch hit for Barry by fanning in the ninth.

* * *

HOWARD refused to run when he hit one too high for Ruth that Janvrin had little, if any, time to gather, but did finally get, owing to the fact that the base-runner stopped thinking, or something of that kind.

* * *

* * *

IN the first eleven games played by the Cleveland Club it has played to half as many people as it played to in the first half of last season.

* * *

GRANEY crawled back to third on his hands and knees in the eighth. The play was enjoyed by the fans. At no time was he in danger, for the play was not made on him, though there was a chance of that.

* * *

TODAY is another chance, if it doesn't snow or freeze up the ball field. After that Cleveland club opens the White Sox. It is a good scheme to get busy and secure that state of mind. A little more life and closer application mentally to what is going on would be a step in the right direction.

COLLEGE RESULTS.

HARVARD CREWS LEAVE

Head Coach Herrick Off to Philadelphia with Squad of Nineteen for Saturday's Races.

HARVARD'S buccaneers, who are slated to take part in three races on the Schuylkill River Saturday afternoon, when the events of the annual American Henley regatta are run off, will leave this afternoon at 5 o'clock, taking a rattler to New York.

The squad, which will comprise nineteen oarsmen, three of the managerial force, Head Coach Robert F. Herrick and Assistant Coach William Haines, will stay at the Vanderbilt tonight, going over to Philadelphia in the morning when the crews will be sent over the course at 10:30 o'clock, providing conditions are favorable to rowing.

The junior crew has been entered in two events: first and second eights. The third crew will be sent into the brush for junior college eights. Newton P. Darling will represent the university in the single sculls.

The squad, including the rowing order, follows:

Junior Crew — Stroke, Brown; 7, Coolidge; 6, H. Middendorf; 5, Stebbins; 4, Parsons; 3, Herrick; 2, Bushnow, Hinginson; cox, Cameron.

Third Crew — Stroke, Wiggin; 7, Brazer; 6, Pope; 5, W. Middendorf; 4, Culbert; 3, Soucy; 2, Chichester; bow, Whitmarsh; cox, Henderson. Substitute, N. P. Darling.

PIONEERS IN CLASH FOR ROXBURY TITLE

Jevins McTish's Pioneer Social Club nine will clash with the fast Norfolk A. C. for the championship of Roxbury, May 30. Both clubs have been rivals on the diamond for the last six years, each winning three games. This game will decide the championship for all times. Eddie Cotter will twirl for the Pioneers against Johnny McCarthy. McTish claims the Pioneers will win.

BALL PLAYERS ARE INVITED TO DANCE

Members of both the Red Sox and Cleveland baseball teams have been invited to attend the annual dancing party of the Gate of Heaven Club at Bethesda Hall, South Boston, tonight. This popular organization, which conducts a party each year in May, is confident that this year's event will be the best in the history of the club.

U. OF W. NOT COMING.

Seattle, May 11.—The University of Washington eight-oared crew will not participate in the intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson next month. It is announced none of the Eastern crews has accepted Washington's invitation to race here this Summer.

CHAPLIN LOST TO TIGERS.

Princeton, N. J., May 11.—Dune Chaplin, Princeton's best pitcher, is lost to the varsity for the season owing to undergoing an operation for appendicitis. Days is also out, leaving Link and Thompson the only dependables.

FOOD FOR SPORT FANS

By GEORGE E. PHAIR.

DO I WAKE OR SLEEP?

Have I been taking hasheesh?
Have I been smoking hop?
The Macks are at the bottom,
The Indians on top.

We have it, on no less an authority than George Grim, that they are not wooden Indians.

We are often told that the only good Indian is a deceased Indian, but Tris Speaker appears to be at least 100 per cent. alive.

Jimmy Archer is back in mid-season form. He has a busted finger, though back in harness.

Speaking of mid-season form, glances at the batting averages reveals the fact that the Sox have arrived.

We never have tried this dry land swimming we have heard so much about, but we suspect that it is almost as exciting as playing golf on a billiard table.

Early in life we learned that the simplest way to acquire the art of swimming is to have some rough-neck bump you off the dock.

LEARNING TO SWIM.

Some learn to swim
In a lumber yard,
And think, it exceeding hard.
I learned when I
When a kid "no high"
On the dock of a lumber yard.

THEM WERE THE GOOD OLD DAYS.

Women nowadays wear more clothes when they go in swimming than they do when they walk on the street. However, this dissertation has nothing to do with women's bathing suits. It concerns the bathing suits we wore when we were kids. We hid our clothes in mysterious spots beneath the lumber piles and flopped into the coal-black water clothes-free.

And when the guardian of the peace, otherwise known as the cop, stood on the dock in all his official regalia and waved his club and ordered us, in the name of the law, to come out and submit to arrest, we placed our thumbs against our noses and gently but firmly wiggled our fingers, advising him, meanwhile, to depart to a distant and overheated region, the name of which is not mentioned in our best circles, except during the course of a sermon.

Only once in the course of those golden days was there a ripple on the placid waters of peace. A new kid moved into the neighborhood. We had suspicions from the first, because he wore shoes on week days in Summer, but we attributed that failing to his parents.

But the shock came the first time we took him swimming. He actually put on a pair of swimming pants. There was a sudden but ominous silence among the gang. Then, as with one voice, the gang spoke: "Git outa here, ya goldarn dude!"

According to the weather and according to the calendar it is Spring. And yet Walter Camp is writing football dope and a lot of bowlers are bowling. You can't believe anything these days.

I am a movie star.

My life is full of thrills. I jump off cliffs. I rescue despairing maidens. I stop runaways.

But there's one thrill that beats 'em all—the thrill of delight every time I smoke a "Helmar" Turkish Cigarette. Seems as if each "Helmar" is better than the last.

The mildest tobacco for cigarettes is Turkish.

The best tobacco for cigarettes is Turkish.

Don't pay ten cents for anybody's cigarette until you have tried "Helmar;" a fascinating, elevating, gentleman's smoke.

Yale Rules Favorite Harvard Meet Saturday

ALTHOUGH the inter-collegiates occupy a position of supremacy in the track athletic world, bringing into competition cinder path and field stars from every corner of the continent, the Yale-Harvard dual meet calls easily premier place in games between two American universities.

A glance at American record-making and record-breaking performances will show that competitors in the Yale-Harvard meet have been responsible for the making of more records than any other two colleges in the country. The hurdle events, as usual, the most difficult to forecast accurately of any in the entire list of athletic competition.

Harvard has, however, shown flashes of brilliant hurdling this spring and indications based on that make it likely that Yale will not point her to these two races.

BIG FOUR LIKELY TO SHINE.

Four athletes are likely to be considered sure[s], Edward Teschera of Harvard, Wesley Otter, the Yale captain, John V. Farwell, and Jo[hn]son for Yale.

These four should win ten points. Another sprinting home play will win the [re]lay and the yards dashes [are] probably forecasts which have [in] doubt that it would be a walk-over for the visiting university.

On the most consistent form shown by the athletes of the two institutions, the Eli should have a margin of between six and ten points at the conclusion of the games.

Harvard outclasses Yale on the track while Yale should score two points in the field events to more [than] counterbalance the Crimson. The hurdle [race] is usually the most difficult to [fore]cast accurately of any in the entire [com]petition.

She has the same aspirations, the same spurs that rowel her ambition and send it up and up, the same wearinesses, the same rewards. And just as you do she gets money for the tale she gets; and just as your eyes shine over it, so do hers. And just as you do—if you are high calibre—she turns and hands it on.—NELL BRINKLEY

In Our Very Wonderful World

HUNDREDS of years ago there was no paper. We couldn't get on without it now, these days, could we? We are always wanting it—to write upon, to wrap things up in; and last, but not least, to print our books and newspapers on.

It was a clever little Japanese gentleman who first invented it. This little man was a merchant, and as he had ever so many parcels to send out from his shop every week, he found the silk and cloth he always wrapped them in very expensive items.

He was always trying and puzzling his brains to try to invent something that would be cheaper and more handy. One day while he was walking in the garden he came across a wasps' nest that had been built how wonderfully it was made, how the clever wasps had gathered bits of wood, softened it with their saliva, paste with their jaws, and then carefully shaped it with their feet.

He was so delighted to see that the little creatures could make such a good thing out of wood, and form it into a pulp by means of water, that he thought the silk he always used would be something like the fabric of the wasps' nest. All by himself, and without help, he set to work to find out what he could do. He tried many other things, and at last made a paper which was very much like that we have to-day. This was about 1,000 years ago—but it was not until a good many years after that paper was known in Europe.

Nature is more than the fairies to performers of magic. Her every one of its mighty pistons is in one second with the speed of nineteen miles an hour without seeming to move its wings to any great degree.

In some parts of Spanish Guinea, Africa, a currant pudding is such a delicacy that the first time the traveler is offered one he thinks he is going to be brought to the end with. Then will cheerfully barter a sheep for a loaf.

"We prefer to offer you Kayser silk gloves, because—they give a service that you cannot find in other silk gloves, the special sale kinds.

"Kayser gloves are made of pure silk, not weighted, and so they keep their shape and wear. Of course, you know about the double finger-tips—the original Kayser idea. They are guaranteed."

So many millions of women prefer them that more Kayser Silk Gloves are sold than all other silk gloves combined, and this is why they are to be found in the high class stores throughout the world.

Kayser Silk Gloves cost no more than the ordinary kind; whether two clasp, twelve button or sixteen button lengths Kayser's always represent the best value at the price. The name Kayser is in the hem and with each pair is a guarantee ticket that the tips will outwear the gloves.

Treason, Be It Committed by Carson or Pearse, Is Treason

THE wholesale execution of Irishmen who took part in the Irish revolt is certainly not straining the quality of mercy.

These men incurred under the law of all nations the penalty of death. But in these times we are not enforcing the extreme of the penalties of the law as we used to enforce them. The North did not execute General Lee or Jefferson Davis or any of the leaders of the great rebellion which shook this republic to its foundation and which in comparison with the Irish uprising was as a cyclone to a flurry, an earthquake to the rumble of distant thunder. These men were guilty of no moral turpitude. They were gentlemen and men of honor, men of culture, impractical but enthusiastic and patriotic according to their lights. If Great Britain could forgive the Ulster volunteers and put Sir Edward Carson in the Cabinet; if she could forgive General DeWet in South Africa, she might have forgiven many of these unfortunate Irishmen.

What takes the justice from British severity in the Irish case is the failure to punish Carson and his confederates for THEIR treason, as great, if not as dangerous, as the Irish revolt, and the failure to punish the Dutch rebels in the same measure. It is making flesh of one and fowl of another that hurts.

Make Boston's Streets Safe and Clean Without Delay

MR. STORROW is waging a good fight in behalf of the people of Boston when he is attempting to compel a greater expenditure of money for labor on our streets and a less wasting of money for contractors. Our streets are in a dangerous condition today.

Now that the Summer is approaching with its high winds and dry streets, the condition of the dust and filth of the city is almost unparalleled anywhere in the nation. It is more dangerous to pass from either of the great railroad stations to one's place of business than to pass through an African jungle. The wind sweeps up the dust and germs from the dirty streets and pours them into your eyes, ears, nose and hair. You are dirty and full of germs before you begin the day's work.

Yesterday a city refuse team full of overflowing dirt, without springs or cover, trotted up Portland street over the cobblestones, emitting clouds of dust and filth greater than those which pour from a locomotive with full steam up and fresh coal on. People were obliged to put their hands over their mouths, close their eyes and turn their faces away. One side of the street was shut from view by the clouds of dirt which arose from this team and filled the air. The offal carts permeate the streets with foul odor and abuttors are allowed to sweep the sidewalks without wetting them down and so aid the city employes in the work of adding to the discomfiture of the citizens as they go to their business. And conditions in the outlying districts are just as bad.

In no other municipalities of the country probably are the conditions so bad as today in Boston.

Cannot Mayor Curley, Mr. Storrow and Mr. Kenny and other members of the city government reach some conclusion as to the trouble and adopt some plan for its remedy? Certainly the fault of unnecessary raising of dust is an administrative fault and has very little to do with the lack of funds. If we had an efficient street department this would never happen.

There ought to be an ordinance forbidding abuttors to sweep their sidewalks during business hours without wetting them down. It is a great deal better to have the dust under your feet than to have it raised into your eyes, nose and mouth.

"Old Ironsides" Is to Be Saved

CONGRESSMAN GALLIVAN has given another proof of his activity and influence in Washington, together with his pride in the historic things of Boston.

The appropriation which Mr. Gallivan succeeded in obtaining for "Old Ironsides" will save that noble relic of a day when American ships sailed on every sea, when the American flag was familiar in every port in the world, and American skippers were known as the boldest and American clippers as the fastest on all the oceans, and American gunners, like those who sighted the guns of "Old Ironsides," were the best marksmen among all the navies. We expect those splendid days to return.

Let us put "Old Ironsides" in some conspicuous place, for she inspires Americans.

Help the Credit Unions

GOOD luck to the efforts of those public-spirited men who are campaigning to raise a fifty-thousand dollar fund for the credit unions.

This humanitarian enterprise needs all the support it can get. It is an efficient and self-respecting method of helping those in temporary need of funds to help themselves. It would help us all to avoid both horns of the Shakespearean dilemma:

"Neither a borrower nor a lender be,
For loan oft doth lose both itself and friend
And borrowing dulls the edge of husbandry."

Minding Your Own Business Greatest Art

Only Few Heroic Women Capable of Keeping Their Hands Off Others' Affairs, Dorothy Dix Declares—Interference Apparently Part of Feminine Nature

By Dorothy Dix

A MAN asked me the other day what I considered the finest art in the world.

To this I promptly responded: "The art of minding your own business," and I added with a sigh, "it's an art that seems to be beyond the grasp of my own sex."

And that is a sad, sad truth. Women can learn anything else except to let other people run their own affairs. That's as much beyond the average woman as a flight to the stars. It takes a woman of heroic mould to arrive at the point of grace when she can behold another individual making a pie without thrusting her finger in it.

Woman is a great original and unreconstructed Buttinsky. She has always been like that. She was built that way. And it has always been her bane. She has broken her heart over other people's sorrow. She has lain awake at night and lost sleep over other people's worries.

She has bankrupted herself paying other people's debts. She has brought on nervous prostration trying to run other people's lives. She has stirred up more heart burnings and jealousy and bitterness and strife by not minding her own business than have been caused by anything else in the world.

Of course, there are two meddlers, but they are few and far between. The mania for interfering in other people's business is distinctly feminine. The average man feels that he has got about all that he can manage with his own affairs, and trouble enough of his own without borrowing his neighbor's.

The average woman attends to her business in the intervals when she isn't worrying about why the Browns don't send their children to the public school instead of to a private one, when Brown is only on a salary, and how the Smiths can afford a new automobile this season.

And the queerest part of it all is that by some quirk of feminine logic this unwarranted butting into other people's affairs is accounted a virtue by her instead of a vice.

A woman's definition of selfishness is an individual who attends strictly to his own business, and who doesn't interfere with advice when other people are in trouble, nor prescribe on his own book for a sick person.

The inability to attend to her own business and leave other people to run theirs, without any assistance from her goes a long way toward explaining why women so often fail in their undertakings. For instance, it is the principal reason why so many women break down physically. They try to carry the universe on their shoulders.

They could manage well enough with their own work, and bear with sufficient fortitude their own troubles, but when they add to that the accumulated afflictions of everybody with whom they are acquainted, they collapse under the burden of woe.

It is doubtless a pity that Mrs. Jones should be such a poor manager and so wasteful and extravagant. It is much to be regretted that young Black does not go to work and support his widowed mother. It is a crying shame that the Gray baby should be fed on sauerkraut and beer instead of sterilized milk, but, after all, the other women in the neighborhood are not responsible for these affairs, and there isn't a blessed thing they can do about them, so why should they worry. Yet they do.

There isn't a wife and mother for blocks around who isn't wearing herself into a frazzle over the way the Joneses and the Blanks and the Grays of their communities conduct their households, and all to no purpose, for the Joneses and the Blanks and the Grays don't want their advice, and won't have it at any price.

Of course, when there is any need of a Solomon, every woman feels capable of speaking right up and answering the call, but it is well to occasionally reflect that other people are almost as capable of running their own affairs as we would be. This is always a surprise to us, but it is a fact nevertheless.

There was probably never a marriage when everybody in the community didn't feel that they could have made a much more judicious selection for both parties than they had made for themselves, yet divorce is comparatively rare. Everyone of us is dead sure that we could bring up everybody else's children much better than they are doing it, yet other people's children seem to turn out about as well as our own.

We women really afflict ourselves about these matters. We are reduced to tears because Sallie Peters is going to marry the man she wants instead of the man whom we think would suit her. We aggravate our souls because Mrs. Perkins lets her baby play in the back yard with the cat instead of having it folding paper mats at the kindergarten. If the sympathy we lavish on people who don't need it nor desire it, and the amount of energy we expend on other people's affairs could be applied to our own business, we should all be shining examples of success.

People are always wondering what the lure of city life is. Its main attraction is that in a big city you are delivered from interfering neighbors. We never get to know people well enough for them to advise us, and there is such great peace and happiness in being permitted to manage our own affairs in our own way that it compensates for every ill city people suffer. The millennium will have arrived when we all learn to mind our own business. But it will be an Eveless Eden without a single woman in it.

The Family Tree

By William F. Kirk

YOUNG Bilkins had a family tree
He often spoke about.
His grandsire fought at Wounded Knee
And put ten redmen out.
His other grandsire was a man
Of wondrous strength and size;
His uncle sparred with Sullivan
And blacked the champion's eyes.

His Aunt Louise could paint a storm
So cold and bleak and gray
That if you wanted to keep warm
You had to look away.
His Aunt Matilda met a Count
And married him at once;
His Great-Aunt Kate became the mate
Of Baron Dubbeldunce.

Young Bilkins kept that tree displayed
For every mortal eye;
He loved to loiter in its shade
And watch the world go by.
He loved to loiter and to strut,
For such as cared to see;
As though he were the only nut
Beneath a family tree.

What Is Spring Fever?

By Woods Hutchinson, M. D.

The World's Best Known Writer on Medical Subjects

THIS is one of the questions that anybody ought to be able to answer, for have we not all suffered from the disease—most of us repeatedly? But unfortunately in Spring fever, as in most other diseases, the very last person to be able to tell what it is, is the man who has it! He may know just how he feels, but as to what ails him and what is the cause of it—that's an entirely different question. He can't get far enough outside of himself, or take a sufficiently detached and impersonal point of view, to make his opinion of any value.

So when we begin to yawn and stretch and have "that tired feeling," as the maples are in blossom and the frogs begin to pipe, we drawl: "I wonder what's the matter o' me; I must be gettin' Spring fever." And then having given it a name we are satisfied, although no wiser than before.

Probably one of the charms of the name, and the reason for the remarkable prevalence and popularity of the disease, is that it explains everything to our satisfaction and nobody can ever prove that we are wrong.

Wisdom to Give In

Moreover, as the symptoms of the disease are, if we have the wisdom to give in to them, agreeable rather than otherwise, mildly luxurious in fact, it continues to flourish and blossom each Spring. To be able to say, "Oh, it's only Spring fever" is a double relief; it both soothes our fears and gives us full "King's Ex" to settle down and enjoy a brief spell of laziness.

Our precious belief in a Spring fever, which entitles us to loaf and bask in the sun unashamed, has probably a double origin. As the little boy in the fairy tale was warned by his guide on entering the enchanted wood that there were two kinds of bears which he might encounter—good bears and bad bears; so there are two kinds of Spring fevers. One which cures itself with the assistance of the Spring sunshine and that most potent medicine known to the Italians as "Dolce far niente"—"Sweet doing nothing." Another which calls for real medicine and active measures of treatment.

The "bad" Spring fevers are malaria, from the first mosquitoes coaxed out by the early sunshine; pneumonia, bronchitis, tonsilitis, measles and whooping-cough, from the "piling up" effects of Winter's bugs and Winter's gloom and sleet, as we have already seen.

Fortunately they are probably, all taken together, scarcely a fourth as numerous as the "good" Spring fevers, but they probably gave the name to the malady in the first place and have helped to keep alive the belief in it as a real disease, instead of a simple and perfectly justifiable sense of dissatisfaction with our surroundings and conditions.

The same preliminary treatment is good for both kinds—that is, yielding to the indisposition for exertion and taking things easy for a day or so, and if this doesn't cure you in forty-eight hours, consult your family adviser. All that is necessary to remember, just to be on the safe side, that feelings of depression and disinclination to exertion, even in the Spring, may be the beginning of some real ailment and not to let the symptoms drag along day after day without proper attention.

Time to Relax

The principal cause of the "good" or commonest kind of Spring fever is the Spring itself. All Winter long we have been driving full steam ahead at our work, partly under the stimulus of the cold, partly from the pressure of the busiest season, and the gleam of the teeth of the wolf near the door. Suddenly there comes a day when the stimuli are drawn, the tension relaxed, our heaviest season is over for better or for worse, the wolf has retreated from the valleys and the blessed Summer is coming when there will be no coal bills to pay; the sting of the cold is gone and in its place a gentle relaxing warmth steals over us.

We feel like letting up on the hustle and taking time to daydream a bit, and wonder what it is all about. And we surely have earned the right to, unless we have wofully and most exceptionally wasted our time.
